IMPORTANT BILLS BEFORE GOVERNOR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 14.—As the result of the activity of the legislature during its last few days of existence, Governor Whitman has received hundreds of bills, known as "thirty day bills," which he will be required to go over and dispose of before his work in connection with the session just over, will have been completed.

Among these bills are many of far more than local importance, although, as a matter of fact, the great majority of them are related to some specified city, town, village or locality.

There are awaiting the disposition of the executive several important bills and among them are the following:

The Wheeler optional prohibition bill.

The Cromwell amendment to the highway law, by making the word "operator" mean any person operating a motor vehicle in a county wholly included in a city, other than a chauffeur and providing that no person under eighteen years of age shall operate or drive such a vehicle more than ten days in any year without a license.

The Wicks legislative committee bill, providing for the licensing of dogs for the payment to the town or city clerk of a registration fee of twenty-five cents in addition to the license fee which varies from two to twenty dollars.

The bill by Senator Whitney, prohibiting the sale of gambling devices and implements and making a violation of the act a misdemeanor.

The bill by Senator Graves, amending the Labor law so as to provide that in cities of the first and second class no female over sixteen years of age shall be employed or permitted to work in connection with a restaurant more than six days or fifty-four hours in any week, or more than nine hours a day, or before 6 a. m. or after 10 p. m. Certain exceptions are made with reference to cabaret performers or cloak room attendants and kitchen attendants in hotels.

The bill by the Senate Taxation Committee, amending the Liquor Tax law generally. Fees are as follows: Cities or boroughs of 500,000 or over, $1,500; less than 500,000 and more than 50,000, $1,200; cities or villages less than 50,000 and over 7,500, $900; less than 7,500 and over 2,500, $756. The number of licenses is reduced and in cities of 55,000 or less the location is to be determined by a commission appointed by the mayor, by the town board, etc.

The Murphy bill, prohibiting ball dodging at fairs and exhibitions. This bill strikes at the practice of throwing baseballs at heads of human beings.

The Hewitt bill amending the Highway law by requiring front lights on motor vehicles to give sufficient light to reveal any person or object at least 250 feet ahead and ten feet to each side at a point ten feet ahead, etc.

The Gibbs bill, creating a new state printing board, to consist of the comptroller, attorney general and secretary of state, which board shall have supervision over all contracts for public printing, including legislative printing, departmental, the session laws and state departmental printing.

The bill of the agricultural committee of the senate, establishing a state department of foods and markets.

The Walters bill, changing the date of the fall primaries in 1917 from the seventh Tuesday preceding the general election, to Wednesday, September 19.

The Brown bill, suspending the operation of the eight hour law when authorized by the state industrial commission so as to permit over time work in factories where munitions or supplies of war are made.

The Hewitt bill, basing the rate of registration fees upon motor vehicles used for commercial purposes, upon passenger capacity and tonnage respectively.

The Slater bill, repealing the law which permits prize fighting in New York state.

Repealing the law adding new sections to the state law reapportioning senate and assembly districts.

Permitting agricultural work on Sundays.

Providing for the illumination of automobile number plates with some attachable device to be approved by the secretary of state.

Imposing a direct tax of one hundred and forty-six one hundredths of a mill on real and personal property for the general fund.

There are in addition many other bills awaiting the action of the executive.

Parent-Teachers at No. 6.

Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, there will be an especially interesting meeting held at School No. 6 under the Parent-Teachers' Association management. It will be "Mother's Day," and all are asked to attend the meeting and bring their sewing with them. Principal Kidney will give a Balopticon lecture, and there will be an exhibit of the sewing which has been done by the children of the school. Refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

Boy's Clothing Needed.

Mrs. W. Scott Gillespie of the Sunshine Society has asked The Freeman to publish in its columns an appeal for a suit of clothing for a boy of 12 years of age. This clothing is badly needed and any one having such a suit to contribute should notify Mrs. Gillespie, being assured that their gift will be most highly appreciated.

OPENING DAY FOR TRAINING CAMPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 14.—Approximately 40,000 representative men in the nation's civil life answered the call to the colors today. Reserve training camps in 15 sections of the country were thrown open for the huge task of training and equipping these men to officer the great new army which will be recruited under the selective draft law.

Telegrams received at the war department over night and early today indicated that the camps are getting under way with order and despatch. The majority of the camps have a personnel of between 2,500 and 3,500 men. They will be given three months of hard intensive training, and those who have not already received their commissions may take their examinations at the end of the training camp period.

The spontaneous enthusiasm with which the nations young men forsook their classrooms, their professions and business to respond to the government's call is affording the administration much satisfaction. Within twenty days after the call for the officers reserve was made the required 40,000 applications for places had been received. Officials pointed out today that this will solve the officers problems for the new forces that are to be raised. Within three months these camps will provide enough officers to command the first 500,000 men.

Other camps will be started in August, as soon as the present candidates for commissions can be trained and gotten away.

Fort Myer, Va., May 14.—The Officers Reserve Corps Training Camp started here today with a personnel of about 2,500, recruited from the colleges and professions of New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Lieut. Col. Charles W. Fenton is in charge.

GOVERNMENT MUST CONTROL FOOD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 14.—Congress must act at once if the feared food famine of next year is to be prevented.

That was the slogan today of the agricultural experts who have been investigating the outlook. They declared that not alone has there been very little checking of waste in any part of the country to date, but that hoarding by speculators in every article of foodstuff continues.

At the present rate of consumption many staples are almost certain to disappear. And unless congress acts they will be doled out at prices doubling and trebling those of the present time.

Leading senators and representatives who have studied the situation declared today that proposed investigations by either the department of justice or of agriculture cannot help. They would simply be long winded affairs, dragged over weeks and possibly months, and the food pirates would still be in control when they ended. Drastic action which will give the government control with authority to fix maximum and minimum prices must come, it is asserted.

The food and fuel situation is giving the Council of National Defence more worry than anything else. It is already noticeable that there is a division among congressional leaders on how the problem is to be solved. It is very hard to get a majority of both houses to unite on a plan under present conditions. But officials close to the council say that eventually through the assistance of Herbert C. Hoover they will be able to carry their point.

It is considered certain that government control of the great staples—wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, sugar, potatoes, beans and meats—must come. A new department of food regulations or control whichever it is to be called, must be created. It must be given absolute power to fix maximum prices. Mr. Hoover himself has said that if such a body is created by congress and given the power that it should have, the price of flour can be kept down to six or seven dollars a barrel and other staples will be reduced in proportion.

There is no denying that the unseasonable weather which has prevailed up to the present time has greatly retarded spring planting. Many crops of early vegetables, which should be on the market now, are complete failures. Others are so far back that it is impossible at the present moment to indicate how they will come up. And in localities which are more fortunate the speculators have been buying up products as fast as they were marketable and shipping them to the big cities to be stored and wait for a further rise in prices.

$95 for Day Nursery.

As a result of the dance given recently by the young women of the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club, the fine sum of $95 was realized for the work of the Day Nursery. As it is intended to keep the Day Nursery in operation this summer, this sum was decidedly needed and the assurance of this amount of money will greatly facilitate this practical philanthropy.

SPARKS FROM THE WAR ANVIL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam.—Germany's submarine activities may be restricted as the result of heavy damage inflicted upon Zeebrugge by British warships and Wilhelmshaven by fire. These are two of the chief German naval bases from which "U" boats have been operating. Dispatches from the frontier today said that British shells had played havoc with harbor work at Zeebrugge and that fire, which groke out in Wilhelmshaven last Wednesday, raged for seven hours on the Imperial Wharves before being checked.

London, May 14.—The German Zeppelin "L-22" has been brought down and destroyed in the North Sea, the British admiralty announced today. This was the first aerial activity with Zeppelins over the North Sea for some time. It is believed that the airship was on its way to attack England.

Washington.—John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, has notified the Council of National Defense that if the United States will furnish capital, agricultural experts and engineers to show how it is to be done, South and Central America will immediately aid in solving the food problem of the world by entering agriculture on a most gigantic scale.

New York.—The United States Brewers Association has started its fight against the clause in the espionage bill forbidding the use of grain in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Leading brewers of the east are appearing here today before the federal committee of sixty formed to study the question of nation-wide prohibition.

Kindergarten May Day Friday.

Because last Friday was far more a March day than a May day, the little folks of Miss Dora Costello's Kindergarten did not hold their May Day exercises as planned, but postponed the same to the Friday of this week, May 18th, when it is to be hoped that the weather man will have due regard for the pretty and entertaining program arranged for the May Day exercises, which will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning. Margaret O'Meara will be the May Queen and as always the affair will be one of especial charm and interest.

Fragrance on Garden Paths.

Have all garden paths with some plants of fragrance growing alongside. In some gardens of larger size special fragrant pathways are built where they appear to pass through thickets redolent with pleasant odors. But every path may easily have enough fragrance to keep the mind unconsciously in the garden spirit.

Dr. Coogan is a graduate of Kingston Academy and was graduated with honors from the Medical School of Fordham University, New York city, last June. For the past year and a half he has been connected with St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn. The nurses and medical staff of the hospital some time ago organized for the work of using the spacious hospital grounds for farm and garden purposes during the coming summer and the New York Times on Sunday contained a picture showing them at work, with Dr. Coogan at the plough.

Among the commissions issued are commissions to Dr. Robert L. Loughran of New York city, and Dr. George F. Wilklow of Ellenville, both of whom receive rank of captain. BRISK TRADING IN WALL STREET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 14.—There was brisk trading in nearly all of the leading stocks during the first fifteen minutes at the opening of the stock market today, with the steel industrials assuming the most prominent postitions in the dealings. Republic Iron and Steel made a gain of 1 point to 81, and Baldwin Locomotive rose 1 point to 55. The Marine issues were also active and strong with Marine Pfd. advancing ¼ to 78¾, and Atlantic Gulf and W. I., rose ¾ to 99½. Bethlehem Steel B was active with trading at 121½ to 122⅝. Great Northern Pfd was the strongest of the railroad shares, advancing 1⅛ to 106. Delaware and Hudson opened up ⅝ to 113½.

TEXAN FAKED STORY OF HOLDUP

George E. Wilson, who said he came to Kingston from Brownsville, Texas, left the Kingston City Hospital on Sunday and went to Jersey City, his fare being paid by a local resident. It will be remembered that Wilson several days ago staggered into police headquarters and fell to the floor in convulsions and was removed to the hospital. At that time he reported to the police that he had met a stranger on the street and had accepted a drink from a bottle. The drink drugged him and he was robbed of his roll of $190.

Wilson said he had a wife in Texas and the police sent a telegram to the address given but it was never delivered as Wilson's wife could not be found. It was also learned that Wilson had only been recently discharged from a hospital in Albany. At that time he had told a story similar to the one he told here and created so much sympathy that a purse was raised and presented him when he left the capital city. The purse contained $50.

DOROTHY FREEMAN FLAG FUND, $221.96

Amount Contributed is Ample for the Purpose and no Further Contributions Will be Received.

The Dorothy Freeman Flag Fund is now closed, and the $221.96 realized is amply sufficient for the purpose intended. It is not practicable to plant the flag mast in its foundation and unfurl the flag on the same day; therefore it is being planned to erect the mast with suitable ceremonies next Saturday. More definite notice of this will be published later. During the progress of the campaign many contributors have sent in patriotic letters, extracts from which have been published, but it was reserved for the last day to receive some verses. They came from C. LeRoy Mackey, and run thus:

PARADIES ACCUSED OF GRAND LARCENY

Local Real Estate Dealer Arrested on Complaint of Mrs. Isabelle Ludlow, Who Claims he Defrauded Her—Case Held Open.

Isidor Paradies, who has a real estate office on Railroad avenue, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Hanley on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Isabelle Ludlow, who accuses Mr. Paradies of grand larceny in the second degree in defrauding her of $110. Mr. Paradies, who was represented by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was adjourned until Friday morning and he was released in the custody of his attorney. Frank W. Brooks represented Mrs. Ludlow and raised no objection to Mr. Paradies being paroled.

According to the information furnished by Mrs. Ludlow, she accuses Mr. Paradies of defrauding her of $110 which she paid him on May 11. Attached to the information, and made part of it, is an affidavit made by Allan S. Mackenzie of Rosendale, who sets forth that he is the owner of a piece of property on the main road from the Rosendale bridge to High Falls, and that about April 2 of this year he employed Mr. Paradies as his agent to sell the property on or before May 1, and that Mr. Paradies failed to sell it in the time specified and that he ended the contract with Mr. Paradies and that he was unauthorized to further act as his agent.

On May 11, Mrs. Ludlow claims she paid Mr. Paradies the sum mentioned and that Mr. Paradies pretended he was duly authorized to act for Mr. Mackenzie and she was deceived thereby into paying him that sum.

At the hearing Friday Mr. Paradies will be given a chance to tell his version of the transaction.

Saturday evening Private William Halloran of Company I, 71st Regimen, was hit by a train while walking through the cut on the Port Ewen end of the Wilbur bridge. The commission will hear claims filed by the owners of riparian rights along the Esopus creek between the Olive Bridge dam and the Hudson river at Saugerties, which class of cases is now being heard also by Commission No. 4.

TRADING IN MAY GRAIN PROHIBITED

Chicago Board of Trade Discontinues Trading in Corn and Oats—Wheat Sales Only to Fill Contracts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, May 14.—J. P. Griffin, president of the Chicago Board of Trade today announced that a special meeting of the directors of the board had determined to discontinue all trading in May corn and oats. It was further decided that for a period of two days no purchases of wheat will be permitted except where necessary to fill existing contracts.

The action of the board on wheat automatically debars individuals, firms, corporations and governments from bidding up the price of wheat. The action of the directors on Saturday fixed a maximum price for the settlement of existing contracts on May wheat. Contracts on other futures will be closed on a basis of Saturday's closing prices.

The directors of the board of trade acted only after going over the entire situation with representatives of the Allied governments and every step in today's action was taken in co-operation with officials of the United States government.

There was no precedent to guide the directors, this situation never having arisen in grain trading before. The nearest approach to this situation existed on the New York Stock Exchange when in 1901 a corner was effected in Northern Pacific. The stock started around $150 and was hammered up to $1,000 a share. The governors of the exchange met and set the price back to $150.

The board also declared all indemnities on wheat and indemnities on May corn and oats expiring today null and void and ordered the return to the seller of the indemnity price on these grains.

Following this action grain prices tumbled soon after the market opened. In less than fifteen minutes July corn went down six cents. July wheat was bid down ten cents below the maximum of $2.75 fixed by the board.

Opening Prices.

Wheat opened 1 to 3 cents lower. Corn was ½ to 5¼ cents higher and oats unchanged to ½ cent higher.

Wheat—July, 272 to 270; Sept., 244 to 240.

Corn—July, 155 to 150; Sept., 145½ to 142.

Oats—July, 68; Sept., 59 to 57¾.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Following the lead of the Chicago Board of Trade, the Kansas City Board, today, adopted resolutions prohibiting trading in May grains.

To Help Secure Boy Secretary.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Rondout Presbyterian Church which was held last Friday afternoon in the chapel of the church was one of particular moment. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Powley, and an interesting program was presented. Mrs. Powley addressed the women, making a strong plea for a "Boys' Secretary" for the Y. M. C. A., and showing the need of such a special secretary. After due consideration it was voted that the organization should devote its financial energies during the coming year, toward the paying of the salary of such a secretary. Very pleasing recitations were given by Mrs. Charles Cole and Miss Beatrice Freer entertained those present with delightful vocal selections. Refreshments were served, and a social hour enjoyed.

May Supper and Sale.

The annual May supper and sale of the Holy Spirit Church, Rondout, will be held on the evening of Tuesday, May 22, at Griffiths's Hall, and promises to be of unusual attractiveness. In these days of high priced food supplies the very mention of the fact that the supper will be a chicken supper should mean a large attendance, especially as the ladies of this church are famous for their suppers of any sort. Another delicacy will be strawberry short cake. There will be home made candy, aprons and a parcels post sale, also. Finally and of importance to the young people, there will be music for dancing after the supper which will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The majority of the camps have a personnel of between 2,500 and 3,500 men. They will be given three months of hard intensive training, and those who have not already received their commissions may take their examinations at the end of the training camp period

The spontaneous enthusiasm with which the nations young men forsook their classrooms, their professions and business to respond to the government's call is affording the administration much satisfaction Within twenty days after the call for the officers reserve was made the required 40,000 applications for places had been received. Officials pointed out today that this will solve the officers problems for the new forces that are to be raised Within three months these camps will provide enough officers to command the first 500,000 men.

Other camps will be started in August, as soon as the present candidates for commissions can be trained and gotten away.

Fort Myer, Va., May 14.—The Officers Reserve Corps Training Camp started here today with a personnel of about 2,500 recruited from the colleges and professions of New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Lieut. Col. Charles W. Fenton is in charge

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, May 14—Congress must act at once if the feared food famine of next year is to be prevented

That was the slogan today of the agricultural experts who have been investigating the outlook. They declared that not alone has there been very little checking of waste in any part of the country to date, but that hoarding by speculators in every article of foodstuff continues.

At the present rate of consumption many staples are almost certain to disappear. And unless congress acts they will be doled out at prices doubling and trebling those of the present time.

Leading senators and representatives who have studied the situation declared today that proposed investigations by either the department of justice or of agriculture cannot help. They would simply be long winded affairs dragged over weeks and possibly months, and the food pirates would still be in control when they ended. Drastic action which will give the government control with authority to fix maximum and minimum prices must come, it is asserted.

The food and fuel situation is giving the Council of National Defence more worry than anything else. It is already noticeable that there is a division among congressional leaders on how the problem is to be solved It is very hard to get a majority of both houses to unite on a plan under present conditions. But officials close to the council say that eventually through the assistance of Herbert C. Hoover they will be able to carry their point.

It is considered certain that government control of the great staples—wheat, corn, rye, oats barley, sugar, potatoes, beans and meats—must come. A new department of food regulations or control whichever it is to be called, must be created. It must be given absolute power to fix maximum prices. Mr. Hoover himself has said that if such a body is created by congress and given the power that it should have, the price of flour can be kept down to six or seven dollars a barrel and other staples will be reduced in proportion.

There is no denying that the unseasonable weather which has prevailed up to the present time has greatly retarded spring planting. Many crops of early vegetables, which should be on the market now, are complete failures. Others are so far back that it is impossible at the present moment to indicate how they will come up. And in localities which are more fortunate the speculators have been buying up products as fast as they were marketable and shipping them to the big cities to be stored and wait for a further rise in prices.

$95 for Day Nursery.

As a result of the dance given recently by the young women of the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club, the fine sum of $95 was realized for the work of the Day Nursery. As it is intended to keep the Day Nursery in operation this summer, this sum was decidedly needed and the assurance of this amount of money will greatly facilitate this practical philanthropy.

TEXAN FAKED STORY OF HOLDUP

George E. Wilson, who said he came to Kingston from Brownsville, Texas, left the Kingston City Hospital on Sunday and went to Jersey City, his fare being paid by a local resident. It will be remembered that Wilson several days ago staggered into police headquarters and fell to the floor in convulsions and was removed to the hospital. At that time he reported to the police that he had met a stranger on the street and had accepted a drink from a bottle The drink drugged him and he was robbed of his roll of $190.

Wilson said he had a wife in Texas and the police sent a telegram to the address given but it was never delivered as Wilson's wife could not be found. It was also learned that Wilson had only been recently discharged from a hospital in Albany. At that time he had told a story similar to the one he told here and created so much sympathy that a purse was raised and presented him when he left the capital city. The purse contained $50.

His story of being drugged and robbed is considered a fake pure and simple

PARADIES ACCUSED OF GRAND LARCENY

Isidor Paradies, who has a real estate office on Railroad avenue, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Hanley on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Isabelle Ludlow, who accuses Mr Paradies of grand larceny in the second degree in defrauding her of $110. Mr. Paradies, who was represented by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was adjourned until Friday morning and he was released in the custody of his attorney. Frank W. Brooks represented Mrs. Ludlow and raised no objection to Mr. Paradies being paroled.

According to the information furnished by Mrs Ludlow, she accuses Mr. Paradies of defrauding her of $110 which she paid him on May 11. Attached to the information, and made part of it, is an affidavit made by Allan S. Mackenzie of Rosendale, who sets forth that he is the owner of a piece of property on the main road from the Rosendale bridge to High Falls, and that about April 2 of this year he employed Mr. Paradies as his agent to sell the property on or before May 1, and that Mr. Paradies failed to sell it in the time specified and that he ended the contract with Mr. Paradies and that he was unauthorized to further act as his agent.

On May 11, Mrs. Ludlow claims she paid Mr. Paradies the sum mentioned and that Mr Paradies pretended he was duly authorized to act for Mr. Mackenzie and she was deceived thereby into paying him that sum

At the hearing Friday Mr. Paradies will be given a chance to tell his version of the transaction.

TRADING IN MAY GRAIN PROHIBITED

Chicago Board of Trade Discontinues Trading in Corn and Oats—Wheat Sales Only to Fill Contracts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, May 14—J. P. Griffin, president of the Chicago Board of Trade today announced that a special meeting of the directors of the board had determined to discontinue all trading in May corn and oats. It was further decided that for a period of two days no purchases of wheat will be permitted except where necessary to fill existing contracts.

The action of the board on wheat automatically debars individuals, firms, corporations and governments from bidding up the price of wheat. The action of the directors on Saturday fixed a maximum price for the settlement of existing contracts on May wheat. Contracts on other futures will be closed on a basis of Saturday's closing prices

The directors of the board of trade acted only after going over the entire situation with representatives of the Allied governments and every step in today's action was taken in co-operation with officials of the United States government.

There was no precedent to guide the directors, this situation never having arisen in grain trading before The nearest approach to this situation existed on the New York Stock Exchange when in 1901 a corner was effected in Northern Pacific The stock started around $150 and was hammered up to $1,000 a share. The governors of the exchange met and set the price back to $150

The board also declared all indemnities on wheat and indemnities on May corn and oats expiring today null and void and ordered the return to the seller of the indemnity price on these grains.

Following this action grain prices tumbled soon after the market opened. In less than fifteen minutes July corn went down six cents July wheat was bid down ten cents below the maximum of $2.75 fixed by the board.

Opening Prices.

Wheat opened 1 to 3 cents lower. Corn was ½ to 5¼ cents higher and oats unchanged to ½ cent higher

Wheat—July, 272 to 270; Sept., 244 to 240.

Corn—July, 155 to 150, Sept., 145½ to 142.

Oats—July, 68; Sept., 59 to 57⅞

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Following the lead of the Chicago Board of Trade, the Kansas City Board, today, adopted resolutions prohibiting trading in May grains.

To Help Secure Boy Secretary.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Rondout Presbyterian Church which was held last Friday afternoon in the chapel of the church was one of particular moment. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Powley, and an interesting program was presented. Mrs. Powley addressed the women, making a strong plea for a "Boys' Secretary" for the Y. M. C. A., and showing the need of such a special secretary. After due consideration it was voted that the organization should devote its financial energies during the coming year, toward the paying of the salary of such a secretary. Very pleasing recitations were given by Mrs Charles Cole and Miss Beatrice Freer entertained those present with delightful vocal selections. Refreshments were served, and a social hour enjoyed.

May Supper and Sale.

The annual May supper and sale of the Holy Spirit Church, Rondout, will be held on the evening of Tuesday, May 22, at Griffiths's Hall, and promises to be of unusual attractiveness In these days of high priced food supplies the very mention of the fact that the supper will be a chicken supper should mean a large attendance, especially as the ladies of this church are famous for their suppers of any sort. Another delicacy will be strawberry short cake. There will be home made candy, aprons and a parcels post sale, also. Finally and of importance to the young people, there will be music for dancing after the supper which will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"What is this yarn I hear on the streets about a man in public life expressing himself in favor of Germany?" asked the friend of the street corner politician.

"It's straight goods, I am ashamed to say," replied the politician, "and what makes it more shameful is the fact that the man in question was born and brought up in this country."

"What did he say?" asked the friend.

"From what I am told," replied the politician, "he said he hoped the kaiser blew up every ship carrying American soldiers over to Europe to crush Germany."

"Why, that is treason," interrupted the friend.

"It is if he meant it," replied the politician.

"The great trouble with those German sympathizers," continued the politician, "is the fact that many of them, in fact the majority of them, were born and brought up in this country; make their living here; and would not go back and fight for the kaiser if given free passage to Germany."

"Why is it?" queried the friend.

"You might as well ask me to explain why a chicken crosses the road," retorted the politician, "but the fact remains that many of our best citizens are those who have left Germany and taken the oath of allegiance to this country, and who are willing to defend this country against Germany or the world."

"Which is no more than just," interrupted the friend.

"Of course is it," replied the politician, "for if they were not willing to do just that they should get out of the country and remain in the old country where they belong. We don't want men for citizens who are not willing to make every sacrifice that citizenship calls for."

"You said something then," replied the friend, "but changing the subject, I hear the lawyers are getting on the water wagon."

"Where did you get that?" queried the politician.

"Why, at the bar banquet the other night," explained the friend, "liquors were not placed on the table as heretofore."

"How did they get anything to drink then?" queried the politician.

"They had to sign a slip," explained the friend.

"Maybe that accounts for it being a dry banquet," explained the politician, "for lawyers have a habitual aversion to signing documents placing themselves on record."

"That might be so," agreed the friend, "but anyway the speeches were far from dry.'

"Speaking of the bar banquet," said the politician, "puts me in mind of the young and inexperienced reporter who was sent to cover it for a local paper."

"What was that?" asked the friend.

"The reporter stopped one of the lawyers and asked: 'What bar association is this that meets tonight, is it the retail or the wholesale liquor dealers' association'?" replied the politician.

"Ha, ha," laughed the friend, "that was a good one. And what did the lawyer say?"

"He said there was considerable difference," replied the politician, "for some men who stand before one kind of a bar are soaks, while others who appear before the other kind of a bar in a trial suit find that they have been soaked when the lawyer's fee is paid."

"Which reminds me," said the friend, "that my boy said there was a christening in Kingston the other day."

"How was that?" asked the politician.

"Kingston had a little sun that day," replied the friend with a smile.

"And that is probably why his mother calls him sonny," retorted the politician.

"I am thinking of writing a detective story," said the friend, following a slight pause.

"And when you mention the police being called in on the case," replied the politician, "you must never forget to add the line, 'and the police are now working on a clue'."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"There was never a case reported," explained the politician, "where it was not stated the police have found a clue."

"Why is it?" asked the friend, "that the police never want to let the public know there is a robbery."

"I'll tell you," replied the politician. "The police know that a thief knows the robbery has been discovered but for that reason it must not appear in the paper."

"Why?" queried the friend.

"Well," replied the politician, "then if the police never catch the thief the public will not be the wiser for only a few will know that there was a robbery, while if it appeared in the newspaper everybody in town might know of it."

"I see," replied the friend.

PLANT CORN.

The Most Effective Substitute for Wheat at Our Disposal.

The most effective way to remedy the probable shortage in the wheat crop is to plant corn, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Ordinarily the quantity of corn produced in the United States is from three to four times the quantity of wheat, but only a very small portion of the crop—from 5 to 10 per cent has been used for human food. This amount may be estimated in normal times at about 200,000,000 bushels a year. Not over 5 per cent has been exported in peace times. A relatively slight increase in the corn acreage therefore, will place many millions of bushels more of human food at the disposal of the world without interfering in any way with the feed needed for the support of live stock.

In the past, with an abundance of grain of other kinds, corn has not been in great demand for human consumption. But with other grains no longer abundant, circumstances will compel more general recognition of the value of corn as human food. The department is urging strongly the wider use of corn in the diet. It is the best substitute for wheat that we have and can be utilized in breads, mushes and a variety of other ways. We should make every effort to avail ourselves of it.

"Plant corn," then should be the motto of every farmer in a section suited to the crop.

CORN PESTS.

Animal and Insect Enemies Can be Checked by Poisons.

Animal and insect pests of corn—prairie-dogs, ground squirrels, gophers, blackbirds, crows, cutworms, earworms, wireworms, chinch bugs, grasshoppers—soon will open their spring campaigns of destruction. Many of these pests can be effectively combated according to specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who describe measures that may be employed.

For cutworms, lumps of poisoned bait, made by mixing about 50 pounds of bran or corn meal with two pounds of Paris green, six finely chopped oranges or lemons, and enough cheap molasses to make a stiff dough, should be scattered along the corn rows at planting time or as soon as injury from cutworms is noticed. Information as to these poison baits will be furnished on application to the Bureau of Entomology.

Treating the seed with coal tar will usually repel attacks of birds and, in some cases, those of burrowing rodents. A teaspoonful of tar is enough for a peck of corn. Mix the tar with a quart of boiling water. After the mixture has cooled somewhat but is still hot, stir in the corn until every grain is coated, and then spread it out to dry before planting. Corn may be immersed several minutes in moderately hot water without affecting germination. The tar treatment does not repel mice or ground squirrels.

Destruction of corn by ground squirrels, prairie-dogs, pocket gophers, or mice is best prevented by poisoning the animals a few days before the corn is planted. Strychnine is the best poison in all cases, but to obtain satisfactory results a special formula is needed for preparing the poison for each kind of animal. Such formulas have been worked out by the Bureau of Biological Survey and special instructions will be furnished upon application. Paris green and strychnine are poisons and should not be placed where children or domestic animals can get them. Yearbook Separate No. 708, "Destroying Rodent Pests on the Farm," contains many formulas and may be had free until the limited edition is exhausted.

Ulster County Doing Her Share.

The Ulster county farmers are loyal to the food supply question, as they are planting and cultivating more than ever. Ulster county is fortunate that Kingston is the distributing point for farm machinery, and the Canfield Supply Company report large sales on all kinds of farm machinery being distributed throughout Ulster county and the state.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The power of evil habit is deceptive and fascinating, and the man by coming to false conclusions argues his way down to destruction.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Eggs are again becoming more plentiful, so that we need not feel extravagant to serve them occasionally in place of meat.

Cheese Eggs.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of grated American cheese, six eggs, a tablespoonful of butter, a few grains of paprika, a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a cupful of crumbs and milk or cream to moisten. Butter a baking dish or individual ramekins; spread half of the cheese in the bottom and slip in six eggs, being careful not to break the yolks; dust with salt and pepper, add the remaining cheese and crumbs well buttered, then barely cover with cream. Set in a pan of hot water and bake slowly until the eggs are set and the top is brown.

Chicken Croquettes. — Take two cupfuls of chopped cold chicken, a half cupful of chopped English walnut meats, a fourth of a teaspoonful each of salt and celery salt, a few grains of cayenne, a few grains of nutmeg, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, a few drops of onion juice, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and a cupful of thick white sauce. Mix the ingredients in the order given and mold in cork-shaped croquettes, using a tablespoonful of the mixture for each croquette. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg white diluted with a tablespoonful of water, then roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve with white sauce or mushroom sauce.

Duck en Casserole.—Clean, singe and cut up a five-pound duck, roll each piece in seasoned flour and brown in beef drippings. Pack into a large casserole in layers, alternating a mixture of half a can of peas and a cupful of mushrooms mixed; cover with a quart of well-seasoned soup stock, a half teaspoonful of onion juice and a teaspoonful of powered mint. Bake slowly for three hours in a moderately hot oven.

BASKETBALL TEAM HAD CELEBRATION

Unique Record of High School Girls of 1916-17 Appropriately Observed at Banquet—Toasts, Songs and Movies Enliven Occasion.

When a high school basketball team can go through a hard season with but two defeats and win the championship of schools within a radius of some 70 miles, and when the members of such a team are girls, it is perfectly befitting that they should gather at a banquet to tell how they did it, and when in the preceding year the team of the same school won thirteen games with no defeat and were also champions, it is befitting that those girls also should gather around the cheerful board. Of course, everybody knows who they are and fourteen of them answered the call of their coach for the last time in a good while at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night.

Mrs. Woolheater, in charge of the association's lunch room, served the repast and she will attest the fact that girl athletes are no dainty misses when it comes to the eating line. There wasn't any team work in this encounter; it was individual starring, but one can't blame the lassies when he sees the menu, served in Mrs. Woolheater's own attractive style:

Fruit Salad
Chicken Pie Mashed Potatoes
Celery Asparagus
Pickles Olives
Rolls Bread and Butter
Ice cream Fruit Punch Cake

Miss Helen Weber of the 1915-16 team, as toastmistress, cleverly introduced the various speakers, who with their toasts were:

"To K. H. S.," Ruth Humphrey, center of the 1915-16 five.

"To the Alumnae," Faith Safford, forward on the 1916-17 team.

"To the team of 1918," Irene Joslowitz, center on the 1916-17 team.

"To Miss Siegle," Anna Cassler, manager of the 1916-17 team.

"To the captain," Helen Wood, guard on the 1916-17 team.

"To the team," Miss Siegle, coach of the team for the two years.

"To the manager," Josephine Schmid, guard and captain for two years.

At the conclusion of Miss Siegle's speech she presented each member with a personal toast in rhyme, enclosed in a dainty maroon and white covered booklet, together with a snapshot of the team. The verses were cleverly composed and will be greatly prized by the girls. The cover of each was painted by Miss Doux.

Captain Schmid presented Manager Cassler, on behalf of the team, with a pretty maroon and white pillow cover. Then she gave Miss Siegle a handsome gold basketball pin, the gift of the girls as a token of their esteem and love for her.

The program reads as if there ought to have been exchanged several sewing circle meetings worth of gossip, but let it be said to the girl's credit that they were real conservators of energy in this line and didn't overrun the limit a bit. All the numerous verbal bouquets having been thrown and duly received, the girls then lifted their voices in song, singing the school songs. They ran through their cheers with vim and then finished with "The Star Spangled Banner."

"The Scarlet Letter" at the Auditorium being somewhat akin to the insignia of maroon which they all had received for "making the team," they ended up the wonderful never-to-be-forgotten evening by watching the screen.

Mr. Ewel Had Narrow Escape.

Gottlieb Ewel of Hooker street had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday evening while driving across the Broadway crossing. He was in a two seated wagon and while crossing the tracks the gates were dropped and the wagon was caught. Thomas Lynch, who saw Mr. Ewel's plight, ran up the track and flagged the train. The top of the wagon was wrecked where it came into contact with the crossing gates.

CHANDLER TO STUDY NORTHWEST POLICE

Lieut. Barbour Chosen Deputy—Examination of Applicants for Positions in Command to Begin Next Month.

Major George F. Chandler, superintendent of state police, left Albany Sunday night for Canada, to study the organization of the Northwest mounted police preliminary to the forming of the New York state force. Major Chandler passed Sunday afternoon conferring with Governor Whitman, reporting the results of an inspection last week of the Pennsylvania state constabulary. It is expected the New York organization will be modelled along the lines of both the Pennsylvania constabulary and the Northwest police, the pioneer rural police in America.

Before his departure Major Chandler announced the appointment of Lieutenant Percy E. Barbour of Yonkers as his deputy. Lieutenant Barbour is a civil engineer of wide experience in Mexico, Nevada and New Mexico and is at present editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of America. He has been an officer in the coast artillery, New York National Guard, and is now first lieutenant of the Twenty-second Engineers, N. G., N. Y. Lieutenant Barbour was assistant range officer for the New York National Guard under Major Chandler on the Mexican border last summer.

Temporary headquarters of the state police have been established in the New York Telephone building. Major Chandler is planning the examination of applicants soon after June 1. The examinations will take place in the executive chamber and will be open to the public. The state civil service commission will cooperate with Major Chandler in the preparation of questions and in conducting the examinations.

More than 400 already have applied for membership, although the force is limited to 232 men. Applicants may send their names at any time to the headquarters in Albany. They will be informed as to the time of the examination and the date will also be announced through the press. Mayor Chandler desires unmarried men, between 21 and 35 years old, weighing not more than 165 or less than 145 pounds.

RAILROAD MEN HAD BIG FLAG RAISING

Old Glory Flung to Breeze From Top of 85 Foot Pole in West Shore Yards With Appropriate Ceremonies—Music and Brief Address in Program.

Headed by the Barmann Fife Drum and Bugle Corps, members of the car repair shop of the West Shore railroad and the Boy Scouts of the city together with a number of other citizens marched from the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon to the north yard where the car repair shop men had erected a handsome 85 foot flag pole. From the pole which glistened with a coat of fresh white paint Old Glory was flung to the breeze by two of the Boy Scouts who had been delighted to perform this honor.

The members of the car repair shop have been working for some time over their new pole and on Saturday afternoon decided to raise the stars and stripes. Upon the large platform which had been erected were seated, Mayor Canfield, Rev. Mr. Cole, Rev. Mr. Ellis, Rev. Mr. Cranston, Rev. Putnam Cady, Major James H. Everett, Charles Styles, Plumbing Inspector Fred Dressel, Principal J. H. Garrison, E. C. Totten, division general car foreman of the River Division and William A. Brownell, foreman of the local shops.

As the bugler sounded "to the colors" two Boy Scouts stepped forward and Old Glory was run up to the top of the pole while the audience sent forth cheer upon cheer as the flag slowly ran up toward the top of the pole.

When the flag had reached the top of the pole Mr. Brownell acting as chairman introduced Mayor Canfield who spoke upon the part which the railroad men would be called upon to take in the present critical stage through which the country is now passing. Following Mayor Canfield, Dr. Cady, Rev. Mr. Cole, Rev. Mr. Cranston and Major Everett gave short talks and Mr. Totten foreman of the division spoke to the audience which was composed largely of railroad men. Led by Principal Garrison of School No. 8, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by the entire audience and with another cheer which echoed through the valley and off to the distant hills the ceremonies were completed.

Seven For Naval Militia.

After a parade and mass meeting Sunday in Poughkeepsie, seven recruits were secured for the deck division of the Naval Militia. In all 15 recruits were secured during the day. The mass meeting was long and tedious but when people began leaving, Col. C. A. Simmons, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, called for men and stirred up things a bit. "Poughkeepsie Rex," a dog that drives an automobile, did a couple of tricks on the platform and there was a long and illustrated lecture on the naval militia.

FORCEFUL SERMON ON CHURCH WORK

Examination of Catechumens at Spring Street German Lutheran Church Occasion for Expression on Religious Training by the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz.

The examination of eighteen catechumens in the Spring Street German Lutheran Church at the English service Sunday night was witnessed by a large audience. In addressing the audience, the pastor, the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz, said:

"Perhaps there has been no time when the matter of education and bringing up our children has called for so much talk and concern as at the present time. First in order to a proper training of the youth belongs instruction, and by that we mean religious instruction, education not of the mind only, but of the heart. Man is not only mind but soul and the soul is pre-eminently what makes the man, here and hereafter.

"It is our duty to give our children a good education for success and happiness in life depend to a great extent upon education. But Christian education must be based upon the word of God. A thorough religious training is an absolute necessity in our times. And where should this training begin? Most assuredly where God first put the child—that is, the home. The home is the natural place where the child should be instructed and trained.

"The duty of the parents toward their children is not only to provide them with all the necessaries of life but to bring them up, that is, train them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. If parents are required to look to the mortal bodies of their children, how much more to their immortal souls. They should in the first place instruct their children in spiritual things, teach them, train them, not only for this life but provide for their eternal welfare. They should teach them to know the Lord Jesus Christ, to pray and worship the Lord. As early as possible, as soon as the little ones begin to think and to reason, it is for us to instruct them in our holy religion—in catechism and Bible history. From their earliest infancy, let them breathe religious atmosphere. The names of God, Jesus, Heavenly Father, words like heaven, angels, Bible, church and others of this kind, let them be used over and over constantly in the hearing of the child. At first they convey but little meaning to it. But the brain retains even what it at first does not understand and day by day the impression deepens and the understanding grows.

"Christian parents should train their children at home and send them to Sunday school and parochial school where they may receive a true religious training and thorough instruction in the Christian faith. It is the duty of the church to provide for the religious training of the youth. In our Lutheran Church, no one is admitted to the Lord's Table who is not instructed in the Christian doctrines as contained in our catechism. These fundamental doctrines are the following: 'The doctrine concerning God in general; the doctrine of the fall and depravity of man; the doctrine concerning Christ and His redemptive work; the doctrine of repentance, faith and sanctification; the doctrines respecting baptism and the Lord's Supper; the doctrines respecting death, judgment, heaven and hell.'

"Those who wish to be confirmed and thereby admitted to full membership shall previously receive a course of catechetical instructions by the pastor. This a most excellent appointment in our Lutheran Church. These few months spent in personal instructions with the pastor have been the most fruitful period of many a life—have laid a solid foundation for a true moral and religious life. At the close of the course of instruction, the candidates for confirmation should be examined in the presence of the congregation. I now present to you these children who have been instructed since last October and shall be examined. Their names are: Frank R. Henninger, Henry P. Barmann, John P. Bode, Otto H. Lange, Harry Stitzel, Thomas Radatz, Walter Albrecht, Henry A. Fischang, Mervin Garrison, Fred Scharp, Emma Zeidler, Nellie M. Finnigan, Anna E. Koch, Anna M. Stahmann, Sanchen K. Barmann, Maria Scharp, Mildred M. Schick, Elsa Emig."

The examination gave evidence that the children were thoroughly instructed and well posted in the doctrines of the church. The Rev. Mr. Schmidtkonz referred to the fact that this class is the first English class of children to be confirmed in the history of the congregation. The examined children will be confirmed next Sunday evening at the English service.

More Reckless Driving.

Another case of reckless driving was that of a stranger on Broadway on Sunday afternoon when he drove his automobile up the Broadway hill at the rate of 40 miles an hour. At the time a car had stopped at the corner of Broadway and West Union street to allow a woman and child to alight. They were nearly run down by the auto. Officers Welsh seeing the auto coming up the hill jumped out in front of it and held up his hand. Instead of stopping the driver headed the car straight for the officer and gave the auto a little more juice causing it to leap forward faster. If the officer had not leaped to one side he would have been killed. Pedestrians who saw the affair caught the number on the auto as 2-099 N. Y.

Baby Words Rule Songland.

The simpler and clearer a lyric is, the more chance it has of getting across. To carry simplicity to its limit, words of one or two syllables are almost invariably essential to a popular song hit. The writer has to think in the same terms as the great mass of the people.—American Magazine.

DID MR. SCHWARTZ WRECK HIS ROOMS?

Interesting Question Raised in City Court Today When Mr. Balzam Sued Mr. Schwartz to Recover for Damages to Apartments Vacated by Schwartz.

The question of whether Louis Schwartz maliciously wrecked the rooms in the house at No. 90 Broadway formerly occupied by him came up in city court today when Jacob Balzam, who bought the property, brought an action to recover damages from Mr. Schwartz. Henry Klein, with J. M. Fowler of counsel, represented Mr. Balzam while M. O. Auchmoody appeared for Mr. Schwartz.

From the complaint filed by Mr. Balzam it appears that he is a barber by trade with his store in the building at No. 90 Broadway. About March 10 he decided to buy the building. His store was located in it and did so, purchasing it from Mrs. Mena Meyer. At that time the upper floor was occupied by Mr. Schwartz, who is employed in the Bostonian shirt factory on lower Hasbrouck avenue. As Mr Balzam desired the rooms occupied by Mr. Schwartz and his wife, he served the tenant with the usual thirty days' notice to vacate.

Time passed and it was not until about April 17th that Mr. Schwartz finally vacated the premises. The following day Mr. Balzam went upstairs to inspect the rooms. What he found caused him to bring suit against Schwartz.

Mr. Balzam when he inspected the rooms found that some one had taken a black liquid and squirted it all over the wall paper and on the ceiling. Had taken matches and burned the woodwork in the rooms. Had broken locks in the house and had ripped off the wall paper in chunks. That the plumbing was ruined, and that the window cord used to pull the windows up and down had also been cut.

An attempt had also been made to break in the floor and come down in the barbershop on top of Landlord Balzam but the attempt was a failure. In fact Mr. Balzam claims that everything possible had been done to ruin the rooms and that considerable work was required to replace the damage. He had Plumber Netburn inspect the plumbing and submit a bid as to what repairs would cost and he had Painter Jacob Merkle submit a bid on what it would cost to repaint the walls and he had Carpenter Costello inspect the damage to the woodwork and submit an estimate as to the cost of replacing it.

In this way he secured his figures on the probable cost of repairing the damage to the apartment which he claimed was done by the Schwarzes because they had to vacate.

It might be added that Mr. Schwartz is a son-in-law of Mrs. Meyer, the former owner of the property.

Attributed to an Eclipse.

The darkness "over all the land" (Matthew 27:45), attending the crucifixion, has been attributed to an eclipse.

THE TRUSTED AID

Lloyd George's Private Secretary Holds State Secrets.

THIS GIRL LONDON BORN.

Next to David Lloyd George, prime minister of England, Miss F. L. Stevenson, his private secretary, is perhaps the most important person in the British empire. She performs duties for which men have been knighted amid the plaudits of the nation.

Everything that reaches Lloyd George necessarily passes through Miss Stevenson's hands. The private secretary of the prime minister is his chief confidant, his tactful counselor and, in a sense, even the keeper of his conscience.

Some prime ministers, as for instance Lord Beaconsfield, have caused peerages to be bestowed on their private secretaries. Herbert Asquith not only rewarded his private secretary with a knighthood of the Order of the Bath but with the hand of one of his daughters.

MISS F. L. STEVENSON.

In view of the fact that many distinguished men have occupied the position of alter ego to the British premier, Lloyd George overturned an almost prescriptive precedent when he appointed Miss Stevenson. The nomination created a sensation, being particularly welcome in the ranks of those who are working to broaden the estate of women in the realm.

The woman who now occupies the spacious private secretary's room at 10 Downing street, the historic official residence of the prime minister of England, is London born, the daughter of a Scotch father and a French mother.

After serving him as a private secretary in connection with his preparation of the national insurance act, she was continued as one of his official secretaries when he became chancellor of the exchequer in 1913. She was retained in the same capacity when he became minister of munitions two years ago. Of five secretaries she was the second in rank. When Lloyd George succeeded to the war office he took Miss Stevenson along in the secretarial capacity.

As the chief private secretary of the prime minister Miss Stevenson receives a salary of $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

She is a graduate of the London university and the Royal Holloway college. Her only brother was killed on the French front in the battle of Guinchy last year.

Spring Tints.

Japanese colors, dashing, splashing reds and yellows, with streaks of celestial blues, are the real tints for spring. Bright colors took a back seat last winter, some say on account of the lack of dyes. Whether the manufacturers can meet the spring decree for a Japanese riot of shades has not been announced. These oriental colors will be particularly noticeable in the spring ribbons. It is to be a ribbon season. Hats will be made entirely of ribbon ruffles, many of them in a new grayish green that is said to be having a wide swing in the Paris millinery salons.

Scotch Hash.

An onion cut fine and cooked a little in beef dripping, then add cooked meat that has been put through a meat chopper and a quarter as much fine crumbs of dried bread. Add salt and pepper and some gravy. If small amount add a little hot water after cooking awhile. Cook slowly half an hour or more, turning carefully to brown it all. This is very rich and is better made of cooked roast beef which is generally the poorest meat for hash. No potatoes in this hash.

Fashion Fancy.

Some amusing little tricks found in French dressmaking are used to get the effect of a barrel skirt. In a suit of reseda green homespun that has the sweater type of coat the skirt has a deep plait at the side pointing forward and caught in just below the knee with a short strap and buttons so as to give a slight barrel effect.

Largest Power Dam.

What is to be the largest power dam in the country is now under construction in Nevada county, California. Stretching across a narrow gorge called Emigrant Gap, this dam will block up sufficient water to create an artificial lake nearly 30 square miles in area. What was once a miniature, lazy stream, will thus be converted into a mighty lake.—Popular Science Monthly.

Just Like Grown-Ups.

Three little girls were playing school, but each wanted to be the teacher. One little girl said: "I will settle this quarrel—I will be teacher myself."

It Makes Him Mad.

"I take notice," said Uncle Eben, "dat de man dat never wanted to fight in de fust place gits extra mad when he's forced into it."

CURIOUS CHAMELEONS.

Wonderful Powers of Motion In Their Eyes and Tongues.

The chameleon is an African lizard of peculiar form and structure. One feature of the chameleon is that his neck is so short that he cannot turn his head. To make up for this, however, he has remarkable powers of motion in his large, prominent eyes; they move independently of each other and are covered with a membrane pierced only by a small hole for the pupils to look through.

The chameleon is not covered with scales. The body is raised by the legs rather higher than most saurians, and each foot has the power of grasping like a hand. The animal's lungs are very large, and it has an unusual power of inflating itself with air. The tongue is remarkably extensile. The animal lives upon insects, which it seizes with its tongue, darting at them unerringly, while a viscous saliva causes them to adhere to it.

Except for their eyes and tongues, the movements of chameleons are slow. They live on the branches of trees, but lay their eggs under leaves on the ground. The eggs are large, and the chameleon lays ten or twelve. One of their peculiarities is their great power of fasting, which, coupled with their gulping of air in their great lungs, gave rise to the fable of the ancients that they lived on air.

Their celebrated power of changing color is not, however, equally fabulous. This depends upon the presence of two differently colored layers of pigment under a transparent skin, which may show simultaneously or one at a time or blend.

IRON OF THE FUTURE.

No Danger of a Shortage Because of Increased Consumption.

That iron is the very basis of our industrial civilization will be admitted by the thoughtful, and many of our greatest supplies of iron ore are being rapidly depleted because of the increased per capita consumption of iron the world over, an increase which is destined to be greater in the future when the races in Asia and Africa increase their consumption of iron.

These conditions of increasing consumption and decreasing reserves have often in the past, particularly about the beginning of this century, been used to create a scare, on the ground that our supplies of usable ore were being so rapidly depleted that their exhaustion would occur within two or three generations.

This is a preposterous point of view, because as we lower the percentage of iron in the rock which we call "ore" the quantity of such ore increases at a rate out of all proportion to the decrease in iron content, and as we use leaner and leaner ores technical improvements will be made which will minimize any tendency to increased cost of production.

The same thing has happened in gold, silver, copper and other ores, and today copper ores are being worked with only 1.5 per cent of copper in them.—Chemical Engineering.

WALL STREET

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"What is this yarn I hear on the streets about a man in public life expressing himself in favor of Germany?" asked the friend of the street corner politician.

"It's straight goods, I am ashamed to say," replied the politician, "and what makes it more shameful is the fact that the man in question was born and brought up in this country."

"What did he say?" asked the friend.

"From what I am told," replied the politician, "he said he hoped the kaiser blow up every ship carrying American soldiers over to Europe to crush Germany."

"Why, that is treason," interrupted the friend.

"It is if he meant it," replied the politician.

"The great trouble with those German sympathizers," continued the politician, "is the fact that many of them, in fact the majority of them, were born and brought up in this country; make their living here; and would not go back and fight for the kaiser if given free passage to Germany."

"Why is it?" queried the friend.

"You might as well ask me to explain why a chicken crosses the road," retorted the politician, "but the fact remains that many of our best citizens are those who have left Germany and taken the oath of allegiance to this country, and who are willing to defend this country against Germany or the world."

"Which is no more than just," interrupted the friend.

"Of course is it," replied the politician, "for if they were not willing to do just that they should get out of the country and remain in the old country where they belong. We don't want men for citizens who are not willing to make every sacrifice that citizenship calls for."

"You said something then," replied the friend, "but changing the subject, I hear the lawyers are getting on the water wagon."

"Where did you get that?" queried the politician.

"Why, at the bar banquet the other night," explained the friend, "liquors were not placed on the table as heretofore."

"How did they get anything to drink then?" queried the politician.

"They had to sign a slip," explained the friend.

"Maybe that accounts for it being a dry banquet," explained the politician, "for lawyers have a habitual aversion to signing documents placing themselves on record."

"That might be so," agreed the friend, "but anyway the speeches were far from dry."

"Speaking of the bar banquet," said the politician, "puts me in mind of the young and inexperienced reporter who was sent to cover it for a local paper."

"What was that?" asked the friend.

"The reporter stopped one of the lawyers and asked: 'What bar association is this that meets tonight, is it the retail or the wholesale liquor dealers' association'?" replied the politician.

"Ha, ha," laughed the friend, "that was a good one. And what did the lawyer say?"

"He said there was considerable difference," replied the politician, "for some men who stand before one kind of a bar are soaks, while others who appear before the other kind of a bar in a trial suit find that they have been soaked when the lawyer's fee is paid."

"Which reminds me," said the friend, "that my boy said there was a christening in Kingston the other day."

"How was that?" asked the politician.

"Kingston had a little sun that day," replied the friend with a smile.

"And that is probably why his mother calls him sonny," retorted the politician.

"I am thinking of writing a detective story," said the friend, following a slight pause.

"And when you mention the police being called in on the case," replied the politician, "you must never forget to add the line, 'and the police are now working on a clue'."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"There was never a case reported," explained the politician, "where it was not stated the police have found a clue."

"Why is it?" asked the friend, "that the police never want to let the public know there is a robbery."

"I'll tell you," replied the politician. "The police know that a thief knows the robbery has been discovered but for that reason it must not appear in the paper."

"Why?" queried the friend.

"Well," replied the politician, "then if the police never catch the thief the public will not be the wiser for only a few will know that there was a robbery, while if it appeared in the newspaper everybody in town might know of it."

"I see," replied the friend.

PLANT CORN.

The Most Effective Substitute for Wheat at Our Disposal.

The most effective way to remedy the probable shortage in the wheat crop is to plant corn, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Ordinarily the quantity of corn produced in the United States is from three to four times the quantity of wheat, but only a very small portion of the crop—from 5 to 10 per cent has been used for human food. This amount may be estimated in normal times at about 200,000,000 bushels a year. Not over 5 per cent has been exported in peace times. A relatively slight increase in the corn acreage therefore, will place many millions of bushels more of human food at the disposal of the world without interfering in any way with the feed needed for the support of live stock.

In the past, with an abundance of grain of other kinds, corn has not been in great demand for human consumption. But with other grains no longer abundant, circumstances will compel more general recognition of the value of corn as human food. The department is urging strongly the wider use of corn in the diet. It is the best substitute for wheat that we have and can be utilized in breads, mushes and a variety of other ways. We should make every effort to avail ourselves of it.

"Plant corn," then should be the motto of every farmer in a section suited to the crop.

CORN PESTS.

Animal and Insect Enemies Can be Checked by Poisons.

Animal and insect pests of corn—prairie-dogs, ground squirrels, gophers, blackbirds, crows, cutworms, earworms, wireworms, chinch bugs, grasshoppers—soon will open their spring campaigns of destruction. Many of these pests can be effectively combated according to specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who describe measures that may be employed.

For cutworms, lumps of poisoned bait, made by mixing about 50 pounds of bran or corn meal with two pounds of Paris green, six finely chopped oranges or lemons, and enough cheap molasses to make a stiff dough, should be scattered along the corn rows at planting time or as soon as injury from cutworms is noticed. Information as to these poison baits will be furnished on application to the Bureau of Entomology.

Treating the seed with coal tar will usually repel attacks of birds and, in some cases, those of burrowing rodents. A teaspoonful of tar is enough for a peck of corn. Mix the tar with a quart of boiling water. After the mixture has cooled somewhat but is still hot, stir in the corn until every grain is coated, and then spread it out to dry before planting. Corn may be immersed several minutes in moderately hot water without affecting germination. The tar treatment does not repel mice or ground squirrels.

Destruction of corn by ground squirrels, prairie-dogs, pocket gophers, or mice is best prevented by poisoning the animals a few days before the corn is planted. Strychnine is the best poison in all cases, but to obtain satisfactory results a special formula is needed for preparing the poison for each kind of animal. Such formulas have been worked out by the Bureau of Biological Survey and special instructions will be furnished upon application. Paris green and strychnine are poisons and should not be placed where children or domestic animals can get them. Yearbook Separate No. 703, "Destroying Rodent Pests on the Farm," contains many formulas and may be had free until the limited edition is exhausted.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The power of evil habit is deceptive and fascinating, and the man by coming to false conclusions argues his way down to destruction.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Eggs are again becoming more plentiful, so that we need not feel extravagant to serve them occasionally in place of meat.

Cheese Eggs.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of grated American cheese, six eggs, a tablespoonful of butter, a few grains of paprika, a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a cupful of crumbs and milk or cream to moisten. Butter a baking dish or individual ramekins; spread half of the cheese in the bottom and slip in six eggs, being careful not to break the yolks; dust with salt and pepper, add the remaining cheese and crumbs well buttered, then barely cover with cream. Set in a pan of hot water and bake slowly until the eggs are set and the top is brown.

Chicken Croquettes. — Take two cupfuls of chopped cold chicken, a half cupful of chopped English walnut meats, a fourth of a teaspoonful each of salt and celery salt, a few grains of cayenne, a few grains of nutmeg, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, a few drops of onion juice, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and a cupful of thick white sauce. Mix the ingredients in the order given and mold in cork-shaped croquettes, using a tablespoonful of the mixture for each croquette. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg white diluted with a tablespoonful of water, then roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve with white sauce or mushroom sauce.

Duck en Casserole.—Clean, singe and cut up a five-pound duck, roll each piece in seasoned flour and brown in beef drippings. Pack into a large casserole in layers, alternating a mixture of half a can of peas and a cupful of mushrooms mixed; cover with a quart of well-seasoned soup stock, a half teaspoonful of onion juice and a teaspoonful of powered mint. Bake slowly for three hours in a moderately hot oven.

Queen Victoria's Favorite Soup.—Heat a cupful of minced roast chicken in a pint of chicken broth, well-seasoned; add a cupful of cream and thicken with three hard-cooked eggs yolks sifted fine.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 14, 1917.

Majority Leader Kitchin says that he voted for the taxation measure with his eyes shut, and a similar attitude appears to be common in Congress with respect to the extraordinary taxation measures made necessary by war preparations. Careful study of the subject with a view to arriving at a scientific and equitable levy on incomes and profits of individuals and firms does not seem to receive any consideration at Washington. The taxation theory there seems to be that the end, and not the means, is to be considered. There can be no doubt that all of this money proposed to be raised by increased income, excise and other taxes, together with tariff duties, is going to be needed. But the spreading of the burden fairly upon the persons and enterprises concerned is of the utmost importance. The attitude of capital toward war taxation is most gratifying and the same is true of the labor world with respect to conscription and to speeding up in all lines of industry. Nevertheless, the country is entitled to a square deal from Congress in the matter of war taxes. The necessity for these has been foreseen for a long time. Even though precedents are being smashed almost daily by our Government, that is no excuse for hasty, ill-advised and downright unjust action by Congress in attempting to distribute tax burdens without first securing accurate information on the subject. The ostrich-like attitude of Kitchin is, unfortunately, reflected by too many members of Congress.

It is stated that Colonel Roosevelt has accepted among his two hundred thousand volunteers "only such men as are above the conscription age, whose means are such that dependents would be well cared for without public assistance in case of death or permanent disability of the volunteers," all of the 200,000 having "settled incomes ranging from $2,500 to $50,000 a year, with the large majority more nearly approaching the latter class than the former." Thus it will be seen that one of the most remarkable fighting forces of all times is contemplated in the plan for the Roosevelt division, or divisions, provision for which has now been added to the Army bill by the House. It is likely that the bill will now be passed and the Roosevelt Army proposal be placed squarely before President Wilson. The amendment has nothing in it to compel the President to authorize such a force, or to put Roosevelt at the head of it, but to bring that about Senator Harding and others rely upon the force of public opinion. If Colonel Roosevelt and 200,000 volunteers, not eligible to conscription, want to go to the front in France, it would seem poor policy to stop them, as there will be delay enough as it is in getting together a Government-equipped expeditionary force for service in Europe.

Simpler menus have come to be the fashion at public and private dinners, and for this gift of the times, let us be truly thankful. For years the more elaborate banquets have been numbered among the most deadly developments of our civilization. It required at least three hours to eat the same and usually three days to get over the effects. The only proper method to follow for self-defense was to eat sparingly and then only of the less complicated offerings. This added waste to physical discomfort and the average banquet of four or five courses or more has been anything but a source of pleasure to the discerning eater. Now this is to be changed. A popular club in New York set the fashion by cutting down on the diversity of its daily menu and substituting boiled dishes and plainly cooked meats and vegetables for the studied concoctions of high-salaried chefs. The result was a surprise. The patrons of the club restaurant apparently took to the change eagerly, the homely dishes evidently being a great relief to palates jaded by cosmopolitan innovations in the culinary department. When the British War Commission was entertained in New York last week, Oscar of the Waldorf followed the new idea and a comparatively simple menu was found most satisfactory. Americans eat and drink altogether too much. If the war can bring about temperance in our eating as well as in our drinking, we will be better off as a Nation.

Those of us who have a preference for fish and game on the table can find much comfort in the suggestions of Acting Dean Frank F. Moon of the College of Forestry of Syracuse University, who urges that the falling off in the meat supply be met by the marketing of more fish and venison. Seining the streams for mature fish, after the breeding season, is one idea he advances and another is the stimulation by the State of pheasant-breeding and the private breeding of deer for food purposes. There is a vast lot of waste land in New York State which could be utilized for birds and animals and some of the cut-over sections of the State forest reserve are available for sheep-grazing. Seines could only be possessed by State officials, he holds, and thus the game protectors and other conservation department officers could be turned into producers. In Germany, under ordinary conditions, venison is as plentiful and as cheap, or cheaper, than beef. Certainly there is an abundance of land in the State that could be made to yield a rich return in the way of producing edible fowl and game animals. The humblest table would feel the impetus of cheap and delicious native fish, rabbits and venison.

Flowers.

Flowers are perhaps the most effective of the many little "finishing touches" necessary to an attractive home. There are thousands of persons with beautiful houses, costly furnishings, perhaps, artistically and skillfully arranged by the hands of a clever decorator, but it takes the little finishing touches, the seemingly unimportant tiny things, done by the woman who loves and exists for her home and expresses her soul in her surroundings to make the house lovable.

An Eye to Business.

William's mother told him he might bring home a playmate after school and that she would have two apples on the table for them to eat, whereupon William replied: "I suppose it will be all the same, mother, if I don't bring anyone home; I can eat them both."

The BACKYARD FARMER

SHADE TREES AND THEIR CARE.

The main factor of beauty in any landscape is the shade tree. It is considered above all other picturesque features when we select a location for our own homes, and if there are no trees growing on the land naturally, our first thought is to have some planted. Yet with all of this care in securing nice trees, we give them practically no attention.

Shade trees need care just as much as do fruit trees. A beautiful elm or maple which it has taken fifty years or more to grow may be absolutely ruined within a couple of years by neglect. In the eastern section of this country whole counties have been practically denuded of live ornamental trees through the ravages of uncontrollable pests before the inhabitants of the territory fully realized what was upon them.

Perhaps the most needed and the easiest care to give to most trees is regular pruning. This should be done every two or three years.

In cutting off a limb there is only one right way to do it. The greatest caution must be exercised to avoid tearing the bark below the limb. Use a sharp saw and make a good deep cut on the under side of the limb before cutting on top. Make the cut as close as you can to the trunk, make it smooth and parallel to the trunk. By so doing the scar will be smooth and the bark will grow over it and heal it up tightly, so that there will be no chance for decay to set in. The scar should be painted at once to prevent the entry of decay before the bark grows over.

If there are holes in the trunk of the tree, clean them out well, remove all decayed wood, paint the inside of the cavity and fill it with a rich mixture of cement.

Should any of your trees show a tendency to split at the crotch, run a heavy galvanized bolt entirely through each of the limbs that are separating, and fasten the bolts together with a chain or heavy wire, to take the splitting strain off the crotch.

If there is any danger of your trees being attacked by foliage eating caterpillars or other insects, you should paint each tree with a wide band of tree tanglefoot, or some similar substance, and the time to do it is before the parasites get up into the tree. Of course you must bear in mind that your precautions will be useless if your trees are too close to other trees which are not so protected. Should any serious pest appear, communicate at once with the State Entomologist.

MAKING THE CITY FLOCK PAY.

Many people keep chickens, but few make them pay. Some of these few get the chicken fever seriously and go into the poultry business on a larger scale and then even fewer make it pay.

The city flock of hens can be made to pay and pay well, but they cannot be fed and housed like pigs if they are to produce a profit.

Anyone can make hens pay if only enough are kept to eat up the table scraps, but when feed must be purchased it costs too much to feed a hen three months in cold weather and two months during molting without getting any eggs.

Local conditions vary, but the following general rules must be observed in making the city flock profitable:

Rules.

1. Hatch the chicks before April 15th, so that the pullets will start to lay before cold weather.
2. Don't board any roosters. Buy your hatching eggs. It's cheaper.
3. Furnish shade in summer and sunshine in winter.
4. Half of the south front of the hen house should be entirely open or covered with cloth only. This keeps the air fresh, the house dry and the hens healthy. Only healthy hens lay.
5. Never let a louse or a mite live overnight. Furnish a dust bath in a sunny place. Change the bedding and nest straw every month, and spray nests and perches with lice paint every two weeks.
6. Don't doctor a hen that is really sick. Kill her.
7. Give the hens meat food and green food at least three times a week.
8. The chicken yard must be kept fresh and sweet. Spade it up at least twice a year, turning under some slaked lime to correct the acidity of the soil. Sow rye in the fall for spring green feed and to sweeten the ground.
9. No hen is worth enough merely as a layer to be kept through her second molt. Kill her or sell her before she starts to molt.
10. Don't feed too much and don't feed too little. Grain morning and night is enough, particularly, if dry mash is kept before the birds and the grain should be fed in deep litter.

There is great satisfaction in a flock of chickens if they will do their duty when it will have the greatest effect. Winter is the time when eggs are highest and fresh ones scarcest, and the biggest factor in getting winter eggs is to hatch the pullets early. A combination of healthy early hatched pullets and lots of nourishing food always makes winter eggs, but few people seem to have recognized the factors of this simple equation.

CHAIN PRAYER FAKE.

Blessing and Threat Appear in New and Silly Form.

The endless chain prayers have taken a fresh impetus and the mails are being used for the dissemination of the following:

"An Ancient Prayer.

"O, Lord, I implore You to help all mankind to bring victory to the Allies.

"This is sent from Russia and is sent all over the world. Please copy and send it to someone each day for nine days, and on the ninth day you will receive some great joy.

"It was said in ancient times that all who passed it by would meet with misfortune; all that did it would be free from calamity.

"The nine days begin on the receipt of this."

Just how "ancient" the prayer is would be interesting. The Allies have been at war less than three years, so the "ancient times" mentioned must come within that period.

The prayer seems to be a poor imitation of an endless chain prayer which was in circulation several years ago, and then claimed to have been fathered by a bishop of the Episcopal Church, who denounced it and any connection with it as a fake. The time spent in copying the prayer and sending it to friends might better be occupied with more practical duties, and the money spent for postage contributed to some practical cause. The Freeman's advice to anyone who receives the so-called prayer is to break the freak chain at once by destroying the notice. Both the Allies and the United States can be aided in more practical ways.

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

Beer and Grain Consumption

All of the malt and much of the barley that America is now exporting is used by our allies for beer.

None of the European countries even after two and one-half years of war has stopped the brewing of beer.

The British Liquor Control Commission has not attempted to deprive the people of their beer.

Aside from its use for brewing, barley is seldom used for human food—but principally for feeding cattle.

Sörensen, the Great Danish Authority on Pure Food, States That There is No Waste of Cereals in Brewing Beer.'

He has recently demonstrated that when barley is fed to cattle for producing beef, only 51 per cent of the food value is retained—on the other hand, when converted into beer, 61 per cent of the food value of barley is retained in the most easily digested form.

The ignorant or wilful statement as to the amount of grain used for alcoholic beverages is enormously exaggerated. The facts regarding the quantity consumed for that purpose are so readily obtainable from the United States Internal Revenue Department that the failure to produce them points to a deliberate suppression of the truth.

	Bushels
Wheat	None
Oats	None
Rye	None
Barley	52,439,973
Corn Products	15,711,515
Rice	2,354,000
Total	70,505,488
35% of the material is returned to the farmer as a better milk-producing food than in its original state	24,676,920
This leaves	45,828,568

bushels actually consumed in beer—BEING LESS than ¼ of ONE PER CENT of the grain production of our country.

BEER contains about
92 per cent water and about
5 per cent of extract derived from hops and cereals, principally barley-malt and only about
3 to 4 per cent alcohol.

HIGH SCHOOL WON FROM PO'KEEPSIE

Stormy Session at Bridge City Had Gloomy Outlook Up to Sixth, When Colonial Lads Brought in Four Runs.

The high school baseball grenadiers had rather a stormy session when they opened fire on those of the Poughkeepsie High School at Eastman's Park Saturday but by an effective pocket movement in the sixth inning cornered four runs and the decision by a score of 9-7, their fourth successive victory of the campaign. The official communique has "Pratt" Joyce heading the roll of honor, his batting proficiency being responsible for four runs, scoring two personally and batting in the remaining duo. For general carelessness in fielding, nine would be eligible for medals.

Kingston opened fire first and succeeded in shaving two across the platter. Cordts got in the way of another pitched ball and he worked the rule successfully. Robinson's bad throw in an attempt to catch him dozing advanced him to second. Joyce then drew forth his battle stick and cracked out a scorcher, scoring Cordts. Another bad peg, this time by Kinnane, promoted Joyce to second. After Wilson and Johnson had been felled by strike-outs, Kiernan came across with a hot liner at Hewlett. The latter not connecting with same correctly, Kiernan was secure on first and Joyce at home. Relyea, however, was given the three-swing execution.

On Poughkeepsie's half, Monas grounded out to Joyce, W. Delahoyd singled and Hewlett walked. Cook planted one towards McAuliff, who erred on the play, and all three runners were safe. Another Delahoyd, J., this time, shot one at Relyea, who also bungled. W. Delahoyd however, was caught at the plate, the other three being safe at their posts. With blood in his eyes Mac nailed Kinnane illegally, and he was given first, a runner tallying. Two bingles by Wyant and Havens brought in the three on the bags. Wilson ended the ordeal by pegging Wyant out at third when the runner tried to steal that station.

Four to two is a very humiliating score against the Kingston lads and they settled to work in the second. Netter led off by striking out. Miles was safe when Monas muffed his grounder. McAuliffe got beaned. Cordts fanned. With two down intrepid Johnny Joyce came on deck and slammed out a timely single, Miles scoring and McAuliffe gaining third. Joyce stole second. Wilson ignored the bid to fame and struck out.

Poughkeepsie's performance was brief. Robinson was fanned, Monas popped a fly to Cordts, and Delahoyd did the same to Joyce.

In the third, Kingston's three batters were retired on grounders, Johnson, Kiernan and Relyea. Poughkeepsie added another to their lead. After Hewlett had drawn a pass, Cook sacrificed, Hewlett gaining second. J. Delahoyd got first on an error by Relyea, and Hewlett third. Delahoyd stole second. Kinnane was fanned, but Wyant poled out another timely single, Hewlett tallying. Havens was fanned.

Kingston's offensive was weakening. Netter fanned, Miles popped to Monas, and McAuliffe's long fly went to Havens. Another run, this time without a single, was Poughkeepsie's contribution. McAuliffe hit both Robinson and Monas. On an error by Cordts, Robinson scored. The next three batters flied out to Joyce, Cordts and Wilson.

It the fifth the Colonials made another rally and captured one more run. After Cordts had fanned, Joyce shot across his third single, stole second of course, and scored on W. Delahoyd's error of Johnson's grounder, after Wilson had fanned. Johnson was forced at second by Kiernan's grounder. J. Delahoyd fanned and Kinnane and Wygant were retired on flies to Relyea and Johnson.

Six-Four at Sixth.

A 6-4 score at the beginning of the sixth when one's on the nether side of it isn't very promising and the Kingstonian's launched a flank attack. Relyea was safe on Robinson's error. He got third on Netter's single. The latter stole second. Miles followed up with another hit, Relyea and Netter crossing the rubber. He stole second and scored on McAuliffe's hit. Cordts and Joyce fanned but another error by Robinson put Wilson on first and McAuliffe home, he having stolen third in the meantime. Wilson pilfered second and third, but was left there when Johnson fanned. This sudden display of energy put Kingston in the lead. Score 8-6.

Kiernan speared Haven's fly. Robinson grounded out to Johnson and Monas to McAuliffe.

Another score in the seventh clinched victory for Kingston. Kiernan planted a safe one, stole second and got third on Relyea's single. Relyea stole second. After Netter had fanned Miles floated a long one to left which Wyant caught. Kiernan, however, beat the throw home. McAuliffe grounded to Hewlett. Poughkeepsie also crawled out of her coma to get a parting run over. Delahoyd got first on Johnson's error, stole second and scored when Hewlett singled. The latter and Cook were put out on a double, McAuliffe to Relyea, Mac having caged a fly. J. Delahoyd grounded to Cordts.

Kingston was retired in short order in the eighth. Cordts singled but was nipped stealing second. Joyce and Wilson went down on flies. With two down and three men on bases, Poughkeepsie lacked the final punch in their half. Havens was walked. Robinson planed out a two-bagger, Havens reaching third. Monas also drew a pass but with two out Delahoyd could only roll a grounder to Joyce, who took care of it duly.

There was nothing doing at all in the last stanza, both clans being laid low in quick precision, though it may be said that Relyea, the last batter for Kingston, was also the third man of his team to be hit by Robinson. He, however, was caught pilfering second. McAuliffe also beaned three hitsmiths.

The box score:

ROOSEVELT RESIGNS FROM ARMY LEAGUE.

Joseph Leiter, president of the Army League, correspondence with whom caused Colonel Roosevelt to resign from that organization. Mr. Leiter opposed the army bill amendment to permit recruiting of the Roosevelt Volunteer Division.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote:

"So far as the opposition is not due to mere puzzle-headedness, it can only be due to politics. You are, therefore, as its president, using the Army League to the detriment of the army."

Mr. Leiter replied that the communication would be referred to the league's executive council.

Play for Red Cross Friday Night.

On Friday night of this week, the play, "Off for the Trenches," will be given at the high school for the full benefit of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross. The play is exceedingly entertaining and full of humor, and will be admirally presented under the coaching of Mr. Richards, so all who attend will be more than repaid in the evening's pleasure. Still, at this time, when we are all beginning to realize the seriousness of the times and circumstances of this country, the fact that a most important national cause will be served by attendance, is of even more importance than the good time that will be had. The president of the United States, who is also the president of the Red Cross, has just sent out to every chapter, an urgent and stirring appeal for money, as an enormous war fund will be necessary. And it is by just such entertainments, etc., that a great many of us will be able to help, either for the one time, or from time to time, where it would be impossible to hand out a larger sum at one time. The tickets will be twenty-five cents, and may be purchased at a number of places, besides the Red Cross headquarters, and at the high school on the evening of the entertainment.

BASKETBALL TEAM HAD CELEBRATION

Unique Record of High School Girls of 1916-17 Appropriately Observed at Banquet—Toasts, Songs and Stories Enliven Occasion.

When a high school basketball team can go through a hard season with but two defeats and win the championship of schools within a radius of some 70 miles, and when the members of such a team are girls, it is perfectly befitting that they should gather at a banquet to tell how they did it, and when in the preceding year the team of the same school won thirteen games with no defeat and were also champions, it is befitting that those girls also should gather around the cheerful board. Of course, everybody knows who they are and fourteen of them answered the call of their coach for the last time in a good while at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night.

Mrs. Woolheater, in charge of the association's lunch room, served the repast and she will attest the fact that girl athletes are no dainty misses when it comes to the eating line. There wasn't any team work in this encounter; it was individual starring, but one can't blame the lassies when he sees the menu, served in Mrs. Woolheater's own attractive style:

Fruit Salad
Chicken Pie Mashed Potatoes
Celery Asparagus
Pickles Olives
Rolls Bread and Butter
Ice cream Fruit Punch Cake

Miss Helen Weber of the 1915-16 team as toastmistress, cleverly introduced the various speakers, who with their toasts were:

"To K. H. S.," Ruth Humphrey, center of the 1915-16 five.

"To the Alumnae," Faith Safford, forward on the 1916-17 team.

"To the team of 1918," Irene Joslowitz, center on the 1916-17 team.

"To Miss Siegle," Anna Cassler, manager of the 1916-17 team.

"To the captain," Helen Wood, guard on the 1916-17 team.

"To the team," Miss Siegle, coach of the team for two years.

"To the manager," Josephine Schmid, guard and captain for two years.

At the conclusion of Miss Siegle's speech she presented each member with a personal toast in rhyme, enclosed in a dainty maroon and white covered booklet, together with a snapshot of the team. The verses were cleverly composed and will be greatly prized by the girls. The cover of each was painted by Miss Doux.

Captain Schmid presented Manager Cassler, on behalf of the team, with a pretty maroon and white pillow cover. Then she gave Miss Siegle a handsome gold basketball pin, the gift of the girls as a token of their esteem and love for her.

The program reads as if there ought to have been exchanged several sewing circle meetings worth of gossip, but let it be said to the girl's credit that they were real conservators of energy in this line and didn't overrun the limit a bit. All the numerous verbal bouquets having been thrown and duly received, the girls then lifted their voices in song, singing the school songs. They ran through their cheers with vim and then finished with "The Star Spangled Banner."

"The Scarlet Letter" at the Auditorium being somewhat akin to the insignia of maroon which they all had received for "making the team," they ended up the wonderful never-to-be-forgotten evening by watching the screen.

Mr. Ewel Had Narrow Escape.

Gottlieb Ewel of Hooker street had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday evening while driving across the Broadway crossing. He was in a two seated wagon and while crossing the tracks the gates were dropped and the wagon was caught. Thomas Lynch, who saw Mr. Ewel's plight, ran up the track and flagged the train. The top of the wagon was wrecked where it came into contact with the crossing gates.

CHANDLER TO STUDY NORTHWEST POLICE

Lieut. Barbour Chosen Deputy—Examination of Applicants for Positions in Command to Begin Next Month.

Major George F. Chandler, superintendent of state police, left Albany Sunday night for Canada, to study the organization of the Northwest mounted police preliminary to the forming of the New York state force. Major Chandler passed Sunday afternoon conferring with Governor Whitman, reporting the results of an inspection last week of the Pennsylvania state constabulary. It is expected the New York organization will be modelled along the lines of both the Pennsylvania constabulary and the Northwest police, the pioneer rural police in America.

Before his departure Major Chandler announced the appointment of Lieutenant Percy E. Barbour of Yonkers as his deputy. Lieutenant Barbour is a civil engineer of wide experience in Mexico, Nevada and New Mexico and is at present editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of America. He has been an officer in the coast artillery, New York National Guard, and is now first lieutenant of the Twenty-second Engineers, N. G., N. Y. Lieutenant Barbour was assistant range officer for the New York National Guard under Major Chandler on the Mexican border last summer.

Temporary headquarters of the state police have been established in the New York Telephone building. Major Chandler is planning the examination of applicants soon after June 1. The examinations will take place in the executive chamber and will be open to the public. The state civil service commission will cooperate with Major Chandler in the preparation of questions and in conducting the examinations.

More than 400 already have applied for membership, although the force is limited to 232 men. Applicants may send their names at any time to the headquarters in Albany. They will be informed as to the time of the examination and the date will also be announced through the press. Major Chandler desires unmarried men, between 21 and 35 years old, weighing not more than 165 or less than 145 pounds.

RAILROAD MEN HAD BIG FLAG RAISING

Old Glory Flung to Breeze From Top of 85 Foot Pole in West Shore Yards With Appropriate Ceremonies—Music and Brief Address in Program.

Headed by the Barmann Fife Drum and Bugle Corps, members of the car repair shop of the West Shore railroad and the Boy Scouts of the city together with a number of other citizens marched from the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon to the north yard where the car repair shop men had erected a handsome 85 foot flag pole. From the pole which glistened with a coat of fresh white paint Old Glory was flung to the breeze by two of the Boy Scouts who had been delighted to perform this honor.

The members of the car repair shop have been working for some time over their new pole and on Saturday afternoon decided to raise the stars and stripes. Upon the large platform which had been erected were seated, Mayor Canfield, Rev. Mr. Cole, Rev. Mr. Ellis, Rev. Mr. Cranston, Rev. Putnam Cady, Major James H. Everett, Charles Styles, Plumbing Inspector Fred Dressel, Principal J. H. Garrison, E. C. Totten, division general car foreman of the River Division and William A. Brownell, foreman of the local shops.

As the bugler sounded "to the colors" two Boy Scouts stepped forward and Old Glory was run up to the top of the pole while the audience sent forth cheer upon cheer as the flag slowly ran up toward the top of the pole.

When the flag had reached the top of the pole Mr. Brownell acting as chairman introduced Mayor Canfield who spoke upon the part which the railroad men would be called upon to take in the present critical stage through which the country is now passing. Following Mayor Canfield, Dr. Cady, Rev. Mr. Cole, Rev. Mr. Cranston and Major Everett gave short talks and Mr. Totten foreman of the division spoke to the audience which was composed largely of railroad men. Led by Principal Garrison of School No. 8, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by the entire audience and with another cheer which echoed through the valley and off to the distant hills the ceremonies were completed.

Seven For Naval Militia.

After a parade and mass meeting Sunday in Poughkeepsie, seven recruits were secured for the deck division of the Naval Militia. In all 15 recruits were secured during the day. The mass meeting was long and tedious but when people began leaving, Col. C. A. Simmons, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, called for men and stirred up things a bit. "Poughkeepsie Rex," a dog that drives an automobile, did a couple of tricks on the platform and there was a long and illustrated lecture on the naval militia.

FORCEFUL SERMON ON CHURCH WORK

The examination of eighteen catechumens in the Spring Street German Lutheran Church at the English service Sunday night was witnessed by a large audience. In addressing the audience, the pastor, the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz, said.

"Perhaps there has been no time when the matter of education and bringing up our children has called for so much talk and concern as at the present time. First in order to a proper training of the youth belongs instruction, and by that we mean religious instruction, education not of the mind only, but of the heart. Man is not only mind but soul and the soul is pre-eminently what makes the man, here and hereafter.

"It is our duty to give our children a good education for success and happiness in life depend to a great extent upon education. But Christian education must be based upon the word of God. A thorough religious training is an absolute necessity in our times. And where should this training begin? Most assuredly where God first put the child—that is, the home. The home is the natural place where the child should be instructed and trained.

"The duty of the parents toward their children is not only to provide them with all the necessaries of life but to bring them up, that is, train them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. If parents are required to look to the mortal bodies of their children, how much more to their immortal souls. They should in the first place instruct their children in spiritual things, teach them, train them, not only for this life but provide for their eternal welfare. They should teach them to know the Lord Jesus Christ, to pray and worship the Lord. As early as possible, as soon as the little ones begin to think and to reason. It is for us to instruct them in our holy religion—in catechism and Bible history. From their earliest infancy, let them breathe religious atmosphere. The names of God, Jesus, Heavenly Father, words like heaven, angels, Bible, church and others of this kind, let them be used over and over constantly in the hearing of the child. At first they convey but little meaning to it. But the brain retains even what it at first does not understand and day by day the impression deepens and the understanding grows.

"Christian parents should train their children at home and send them to Sunday school and parochial school where they may receive a true religious training and thorough instruction in the Christian faith. It is the duty of the church to provide for the religious training of the youth. In our Lutheran Church no one is admitted to the Lord's Table who is not instructed in the Christian doctrines as contained in our catechism. These fundamental doctrines are the following. 'The doctrine concerning God in general; the doctrine of the fall and depravity of man; the doctrine concerning Christ and His redemptive work; the doctrine of repentance, faith and sanctification, the doctrines respecting baptism and the Lord's Supper, the doctrines respecting death, judgment, heaven and hell.'

"Those who wish to be confirmed and thereby admitted to full membership shall previously receive a course of catechetical instructions by the pastor. This a most excellent appointment in our Lutheran Church. These few months spent in personal instructions with the pastor have been the most fruitful period of many a life—have laid a solid foundation for a true moral and religious life. At the close of the course of instruction, the candidates for confirmation should be examined in the presence of the congregation. I now present to you these children who have been instructed since last October and shall be examined. Their names are, Frank R. Henninger, Henry P. Barmann, John P. Bode, Otto H. Lange, Harry Stitzel, Thomas Radatz, Walter Albrecht, Henry A. Fischang, Mervin Garrison, Fred Scharp, Emma Zeidler, Nellie M. Finnigan, Anna E. Koch, Anna M. Stahmann, Sanchen K. Barmann, Maria Scharp, Mildred M. Schick, Elsa Emig."

The examination gave evidence that the children were thoroughly instructed and well posted in the doctrines of the church. The Rev. Mr. Schmidtkonz referred to the fact that this class is the first English class of children to be confirmed in the history of the congregation. The examined children will be confirmed next Sunday evening at the English service.

More Reckless Driving.

Another case of reckless driving was that of a stranger on Broadway on Sunday afternoon when he drove his automobile up the Broadway hill at the rate of 40 miles an hour. At the time a car had stopped at the corner of Broadway and West Union street to allow a woman and child to alight. They were nearly run down by the auto. Officers Welsh seeing the auto coming up the hill jumped out in front of it and held up his hand. Instead of stopping the driver headed the car straight for the officer and gave the auto a little more juice causing it to lean forward faster. If the officer had not leaped to one side he would have been killed. Pedestrians who saw the affair caught the number on the auto as 2-999 N. Y.

Baby Words Rule Songland.

The simpler and clearer a lyric is, the more chance it has of getting across. To carry simplicity to its limit, words of one or two syllables are almost invariably essential to a popular song hit. The writer has to think in the same terms as the great mass of the people.—American Magazine.

DID MR. SCHWARTZ WRECK HIS ROOMS?

Interesting Question Raised in City Court Today When Mr. Balzam Sued Mr. Schwartz to Recover for Damages to Apartments Vacated by Schwartz.

The question of whether Louis Schwartz maliciously wrecked the rooms in the house at No. 90 Broadway formerly occupied by him came up in city court today when Jacob Balzam, who bought the property, brought an action to recover damages from Mr. Schwartz. Henry Klein, with J. M. Fowler of counsel, represented Mr. Balzam while M. O. Auchmoody appeared for Mr. Schwartz.

From the complaint filed by Mr. Balzam it appears that he is a barber by trade with his store in the building at No. 90 Broadway. About March 1 he decided to buy the building. His store was located in it and did so, purchasing it from Mrs. Mena Meyer. At that time the upper floor was occupied by Mr. Schwartz, who is employed in the Eastonian shirt factory on lower Hasbrouck avenue. As Mr. Balzam desired the rooms occupied by Mr. Schwartz and his wife, he served the tenant with the usual thirty days notice to vacate.

Time passed and it was not until about April 17th that Mr. Schwartz finally vacated the premises. The following day Mr. Balzam went upstairs to inspect the rooms. What he found caused him to bring suit against Schwartz.

Mr. Balzam when he inspected the rooms found that some one had taken a black liquid and squirted it all over the wall paper and on the ceiling, that [illegible] matches and burned the woodwork in the rooms, had broken locks in the house and had ripped off the wall paper in chunks. That the plumbing was ruined, and that the window cord used to pull the window up and down had also been cut.

An attempt had also been made to break in the floor and come down in the barbershop on top of Landlord Balzam but the attempt was a failure. In fact Mr. Balzam claims that everything possible had been done to ruin the rooms and that considerable work was required to replace the damage. He had Plumber Nesbaum inspect the plumbing and submit a bid as to what repairs would cost and he had Painter Jacob Merkle submit a bid on what it would cost to repaint the walls and he had Carpenter Costello inspect the damage to the woodwork and submit an estimate as to the cost of repairing it.

In this way he secured his figures of the probable cost of repairing the damage to the apartment which he claimed was done by the Schwartzes because they had to vacate.

It might be added that Mr. Schwartz is a son-in-law of Mrs. Meyer, the former owner of the property.

THE TRUSTED AID

Lloyd George's Private Secretary Holds State Secrets.

THIS GIRL LONDON BORN.

Next to David Lloyd George, prime minister of England, Miss F. L. Stevenson, his private secretary, is perhaps the most important person in the British empire. She performs duties for which men have been knighted amid the plaudits of the nation.

Everything that reaches Lloyd George ultimately passes through Miss Stevenson's hands. The private secretary of the prime minister is his chief confidant, his tactful counselor and, in a sense, even the keeper of his conscience.

Some prime ministers, as for instance Lord Beaconsfield, have caused peerages to be bestowed on their private secretaries. Herbert Asquith not only rewarded his private secretary with a knighthood of the Order of the Bath but with the hand of one of his daughters.

In view of the fact that many distinguished men have occupied the position of alter ego to the British premier, Lloyd George overturned an almost prescriptive precedent when he appointed Miss Stevenson. The nomination created a sensation, being particularly welcome in the ranks of those who are working to broaden the estate of women in the realm.

The young woman who now occupies the space of private secretary's room at 10 Downing street, the official residence of the prime minister of England, is London born, the daughter of a Scotch father and a French mother.

After serving him as a private secretary during the [illegible] of the national insurance act, she was continued as one of his official secretaries when he became chancellor of the exchequer in 1914. She was retained in the same capacity when he became minister of munitions two years ago. Of five secretaries she was the second in rank. When Lloyd George succeeded to the war office he took Miss Stevenson along in the secretarial capacity.

As the chief private secretary of the prime minister Miss Stevenson receives a salary of $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

She is a graduate of the London university and the Royal Holloway college. Her only brother was killed on the French front in the battle of Guinchy last year.

Spring Tints.

Japanese colors, dashing, splashing reds and yellows with streaks of celestial blues are the real tints for spring. Bright colors took a back seat last winter some say on account of the lack of dyes. Whether the manufacturers can meet the spring decree for a Japanese riot of shades has not been announced. These oriental colors will be particularly noticeable in the spring ribbons. It is to be a ribbon season. Hats will be made entirely of ribbon [illegible], many of them in a new Spanish green that is said to be having a wide swing in the Paris millinery salons.

Scotch Hash.

An onion cut fine and cooked a little in beef dripping, then add cooked meat that has been put through a meat chopper and a quarter as much fine crumbs of dried bread. Add salt and pepper and some gravy. If small amount add a little hot water after cooking awhile. Cook slowly half an hour or more, turning carefully to brown it all. This is very rich and is better made of cooked roast beef, which is generally the poorest meat for hash. No potatoes in this hash.

Fashion Fancy.

Some amusing little tricks found in [illegible] are used to get the effect of a barrel skirt. In a suit of reseda green homespun that has the sweater type of coat the skirt has a deep plait at the side pointing forward and caught in just below the knee with a short strap and buttons so as to give a slight barrel effect.

Largest Power Dam

What is to be the largest power dam in the country is now under construction in Nevada county, California. Stretching across a narrow gorge called Emigrant Gap, this dam will block up sufficient water to create an artificial lake nearly 30 square miles in area. What was once a diminutive, little stream, will thus be converted into a sizable lake.—Popular Science Monthly.

It Makes Him Mad.

"I take notice," said Uncle Eben, "dat de man dat never wanted to hold de fust place gits extra mad when he's forced into it."

CURIOUS CHAMELEONS.

Wonderful Powers of Motion In Their Eyes and Tongues.

The chameleon is an African lizard of peculiar form and structure. One feature of the chameleon is that his neck is so short that he cannot turn his head. To make up for this, however, he has remarkable powers of motion in his large prominent eyes; they move independently of each other and are covered with a membrane pierced only by a small hole for the pupils to look through.

The chameleon is not covered with scales. The body is raised by the legs rather higher than most saurians, and each foot has the power of grasping like a hand. The animal's lungs are very large, and it has an unusual power of inflating itself with air. The tongue is remarkably extensile. The animal lives upon insects, which it seizes with its tongue, darting at them unerringly, while a viscous saliva causes them to adhere to it.

Except for their eyes and tongues, the movements of chameleons are slow. They live on the branches of trees, but lay their eggs under leaves on the ground. The eggs are large, and the chameleon lays ten or twelve. One of their peculiarities is their great power of fasting, which, coupled with their gulping of air in their great lungs, gave rise to the fable of the ancients that they lived on air.

Their celebrated power of changing color is not, however, equally fabulous. This depends upon the presence of two differently colored layers of pigment under a transparent skin, which may show simultaneously or one at a time or blend.

IRON OF THE FUTURE.

No Danger of a Shortage Because of Increased Consumption.

That iron is the very basis of our industrial civilization will be admitted by the thoughtful, and many of our greatest supplies of iron ore are being rapidly depleted because of the increased per capita consumption of iron the world over, an increase which is destined to be greater in the future when the races in Asia and Africa increase their consumption of iron.

These conditions of increasing consumption and decreasing reserves have often in the past, particularly about the beginning of this century, been used to create a scare, on the ground that our supplies of usable ore were being so rapidly depleted that their exhaustion would occur within two or three generations.

This is a pessimistic point of view. Inasmuch as we lower the percentage of iron in the rock which we call "ore" the quantity of such ore increases at a rate out of all proportion to the decrease in iron content, and as we use leaner and leaner ores technical improvements will be made which will minimize any tendency to increased cost of production.

The same thing has happened in gold, silver, copper and other ores, and today copper ores are being worked with only 1½ per cent of copper in them.—[illegible]

FINE OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

Plans Approved Call for Parade on Broadway and Exercise on Albany Avenue in Front of Kingston Academy Green.

Plans for the patriotic celebration on Memorial Day were reported to general committee on instruction by its sub-committee, consisting of Mayor Canfield, Superintendent of of Schools Michael, Major James H. Everett and Captain B. J. Hornbeck, Saturday night, and were approved by the general committee.

The decoration of the graves of soldiers will be under the direction of the surviving veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and the pupils of the various schools, as usual, and will take place at the customary hour in the morning.

After the cemeteries have been visited and the graves decorated, there will be a parade which will start from Pine Grove avenue and Broadway at 10:30 o'clock. The line of march will be down Broadway to West Chestnut street, thence countermarching on Broadway to Albany avenue, to the Kingston Academy green, where appropriate exercises will take place. It is planned to have the exercises take place in the block of Albany avenue, between Clinton avenue and Broadway, which will be closed to traffic during the exercises.

The exercises will include the invocation by the Rev. Putnam Cady, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street; the reading of President Lincoln's Gettysburg address by the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, and an address by Judge Clearwater. The Dorothy Freeman flag will be unfurled by Miss Dorothy Freeman, who conceived the idea of the flag for the Kingston Academy green, and who started the fund which bears her name. Patriotic singing by the entire assemblage will include the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Business Men to Join.

Invitations will be issued to all the military, patriotic and fraternal organizations in the city to participate in the parade, and arrangements are under way for the formation of a Business and Professional Men's Division. The military organizations will include Company M, Company I, of the Seventy-first Regiment, now stationed here, the depot company, the Old Guard, the Boy Scouts, the High School Cadets, Spanish American War Veterans, and the senior classes of all the grammar schools.

Cornelius Hume, who was announced as marshal for the parade, has been unable to accept the appointment and the committee has selected D. G. Atkins as grand marshal. Mr. Atkins for many years has been actively indentified with the Memorial Day parades and has served several times as marshal.

Wilbur Feds Win.

On Sunday the Wilbur Feds met and defeated the Mystic Baseball Club on the Andrew street grounds in a fast and exciting game that went 12 innings. The score was 10 to 5. The Feds got to Pitcher Doyle in the 12th, scoring five runs and winning the game. The Feds are going in good style now, this making their third successive game. The batteries for the Feds were Stoudt, Cullen and Bush and for the Mystics Doyle, Murphy and McMann. The features of the game were the pitching and batting of the Feds. The Feds would like to make dates with other teams in this vicinity.

NEW YORK STATE CROP FORECAST

Winter wheat in New York promises a yield of 7,690,000 bushels this year, according to the May crop report of the federal department of agriculture. This is 600,000 bushels in excess of the 1910-14 average, but from over a million to four million bushels lower than the crops of 1916 and 1915 respectively. The forecast for rye in New York gives 2,540,000 bushels, slightly less than the yields of the last two years, but the United States as a whole shows an indicated increase in the rye yield.

The condition of New York meadows is reported at 90—two per cent better than the ten-year average; while pasture conditions are 84 compared to the ten-year average of 85.

Estimates on the amount of spring plowing and planting done to May 1 are greater not only in New York but in all the states taken together. New York shows 22 per cent more plowing done than at the same time last year, and 10 per cent more than the ten-year average. Twenty-seven per cent of the spring planting is said to be done in New York compared with only 10 per cent on May 1 last year, and 23 per cent the ten year agerage. Over twice as much old hay remains on New York farms than at the same time last year or the year before, the estimate being 1,405,000 tons. The old hay on farms in all the states is less than in 1916 but more than in 1915, the total being given as 12,500,000 tons on May 1.

SOLDIERS BEATEN BY PRIMROSE CLUB

What was said by many to be the most exciting game ever staged at McVey's field was played Sunday afternoon before the largest crowd of the season, when the Primrose Club of this city defeated the West Point artillery by the score of four to three. Dick Williams, who was on the mound for the locals, struck out fifteen of the visiting players while Bagley, the soldier's pitcher, struck out seven. The game was nip and tuck throughout, first one team would score and the other, not to be outdone, would come right back and tie it up in their half, and so it went until the locals half of the eight inning when Capt. Scherick, first man up, was safe on an error, went to second on a pretty sacrifice and scored when Conners lined one over second for a pretty single, winning the game. Williams had the soldiers helpless in their half.

Too much credit cannot be given the artillery boys as they conducted themselves as gentlemen both on and off the field and they certainly do Uncle Sam credit.

It is the intention of the Primrose management to bring the artillery boys here for a double-header Decoration Day if such games can be arranged.

Next Sunday the Primrose Club meet the fast Catskill nine. Artie Rice and Cy Conners will be in the Catskill line-up.

Warning to Potato Growers.

Farmers in the northeastern states are warned not to plant newly harvested potatoes, especially the small, immature stock now coming from the south, in a statement issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Under the influence of the high price and unusual demand for seed potatoes, these immature stocks, it is learned, are being offered for planting. Newly harvested potatoes, whether dug in the early spring summer, or autumn, the department's specialists state, do not germinate until after undergoing a certain rest period, and results are sure to be disappointing. Germination may be delayed six weeks or more, and in any case will be uneven and the stand imperfect. The grower, therefore, is warned not to purchase such seed, as more or less serious financial loss will be sure to reult if he plants it.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 14, 1917

Majority Leader Kitchin says that he voted for the taxation measure with his eyes shut and a similar attitude appears to be common in Congress with respect to the extraordinary taxation measures made necessary by war preparations. Careful study of the subject with a view to making it a scientific and equitable levy on incomes and profits of individuals and firms does not seem to receive any consideration at Washington. The taxation theory there seems to be that the cost [illegible] and not the means is to be considered. There can be no doubt that all of the money proposed to be raised by increased income, excise and other taxes together with tariff rates is going to be paid. But the spreading of the burden fairly [illegible] concerned is of the utmost importance. The attitude of capital toward war taxation [illegible] most gratifying and the same is true of the labor world with respect to conscription and the speeding up of all lines of industry. Nevertheless the country is entitled to a square deal from Congress in the matter of war taxes. The necessity for these has been foreseen for a long time. Even though precedents are being invoked almost daily by our Government that is [illegible] for [illegible] all of [illegible] and [illegible] unjust action by Congress in attempting to distribute tax burdens without first securing accurate information on the subject. The ostrich-like attitude of Chairman Kitchin unfortunately is reflected by too many members of Congress.

It is stated that Colonel Roosevelt has accepted among his two hundred thousand volunteers only such men as to leave the conscription [illegible] whose means are such that dependents would be well cared for without public assistance in case of death or permanent disability of the soldier. [illegible] all of the [illegible] having [illegible] incomes ranging from [illegible] with the large [illegible] reaching [illegible] than the farmer. Thus it will be seen that one of the most remarkable fighting forces of all times is contemplated [illegible] for the Roosevelt divisions, provision for which has now been added to the Army bill by the House. It is likely that the bill will now be passed and the Roosevelt Army proposal be placed squarely before President Wilson. The amendment has nothing in it to compel the President to [illegible] or to put Roosevelt at the head [illegible] but to [illegible] Senator Harding and others [illegible] opinion [illegible] Colonel Roosevelt [illegible] them [illegible] will be [illegible] enough as it is in getting to their [illegible] Government equipped [illegible] for [illegible] in Europe.

Simpler menus have come to be the fashion at public and private dinners and in the gift of the [illegible] truly thankful. For years the more elaborate banquets have been numbered among the most deadly developments of our civilization. It required at least three [illegible] the effects; the only proper method to follow for self defense was to eat sparingly and then only of the less complicated offerings. This added waste to physical discomfort and the average banquet of four or five courses or more has been anything but a source of pleasure to the discerning eater. Now this is to be changed. A popular club in New York set the fashion by cutting down on the diversity of its daily menu and substituting boiled dishes and plainly cooked meats and vegetables for the stilted concoctions of high-salaried chefs. The result was surprising. The patrons of the club restaurant apparently took to the change eagerly, the home dishes evidently being a great relief to palates jaded by cosmopolitan innovations in the culinary department. When the British War Commission was entertained in New York last week Oscar of the Waldorf followed the new idea and a comparatively simple menu was found most satisfactory. Americans eat and drink altogether too much. If the war can bring about temperance in our eating as well as in our drinking we will be better off as a Nation.

Those of us who have a preference for fish and game on the table can find much comfort in the suggestions of Acting Dean Frank F. Moon of the College of Forestry of Syracuse University, who urges that the falling off in the meat supply be met by the marketing of more fish and venison. Seining the streams for mature fish after the breeding season is one idea he advances and another is the stimulation by the State of pheasant-breeding and the private breeding of deer for food purposes. There is a vast lot of waste land in New York State which could be utilized for birds and animals and some of the cut over sections of the State forest [illegible] are available for sheep grazing. Seines could only be possessed by State officials, he holds, and thus the game protectors and other conservation department officers could be turned into producers. In Germany under ordinary conditions venison is as plentiful and as cheap or cheaper than beef. Certainly there is an abundance of land in the State that could be made to yield a rich return in the way of producing edible fowl and game animals. The humblest table would feel the impetus of healthy and delicious a[illegible] [illegible] rabbits and venison.

Flowers.

Flowers are perhaps the most effective of the many little "finishing touches" necessary to an attractive home. There are thousands of persons with beautiful homes, costly furnishings perhaps, artistically and skillfully arranged by the hands of a clever decorator, but it takes the little finishing touches, the seemingly unimportant tiny things done by the woman who loves and exists for her home and expresses her soul in her surroundings to make the house lovable.

An Eye to Business

William's mother told him he might bring home a playmate after school and that she would have two apples on the table for them to eat, whereupon William replied: "I suppose it will be all the same, mother, if I don't bring anyone home. I can eat them both."

SHADE TREES AND THEIR CARE

The main factor of beauty in any landscape is the shade tree. It is considered above all other picturesque features when we select a location for our own homes, and if there are no trees growing on the land naturally, our first thought is to have some planted. Yet with all of this care in securing nice trees, we give them practically no attention.

Shade trees need care just as much as do fruit trees. A beautiful elm or maple which it has taken fifty years or more to grow may be absolutely ruined within a couple of years by neglect. In the eastern section of this country whole counties have been practically denuded of live ornamental trees through the ravages of uncontrollable pests before the inhabitants of the territory fully realized what was upon them.

Perhaps the most needed and the easiest care to give to most trees is regular pruning. This should be done every two or three years.

In cutting off a limb there is only one right way to do it. The greatest caution must be exercised to avoid tearing the bark below the limb. Use a sharp saw and make a good deep cut on the under side of the limb before cutting on top. Make the cut as close as you can to the trunk, make it smooth and parallel to the trunk. By so doing the scar will be smooth and the bark will grow over it and heal it up tightly so that there will be no chance for decay to set in. The cut should be painted at once to prevent the entry of decay before the bark grows over.

If there are holes in the trunk of the tree clean them out well, remove all decayed wood, paint the inside of the cavity and fill it with a rich mixture of cement.

Should any of our trees show a tendency to split at the crotch run a heavy galvanized bolt entirely through each of the limbs that are separating, and fasten the bolts together with a chain or heavy wire to take the splitting strain off the crotch.

If there is any danger of your trees being attacked by foliage eating caterpillars or other insects you should paint each tree with a wide band of tree tanglefoot or some similar substance and the time to do it is before the parasites get up into the tree. Of course, you must bear in mind that your precautions will be useless if your trees are too close to other trees which are not so protected. Should any serious pest appear communicate at once with the State Entomologist.

MAKING THE CITY FLOCK PAY

Many people keep chickens but few make them pay. Some of these few get the chicken fever seriously and go into the poultry business on a larger scale and then even fewer make it pay.

The city flock of hens can be made to pay and pay well but they cannot be fed and housed like pigs if they are to produce a profit.

Anyone can make hens pay if only enough are kept to eat up the table scraps, but when feed must be purchased it costs too much to feed a hen three months in cold weather and two months during molting without getting any eggs.

Local conditions vary, but the following general rules must be observed in making the city flock profitable:

Rules

1 Hatch the chicks before April 15th so that the pullets will start to lay before cold weather.

2 Don't board any roosters. Buy your hatching eggs. It's cheaper.

3 Furnish shade in summer and sunshine in winter.

4 Half of the south front of the hen house should be entirely open or covered with cloth only. This keeps the air fresh, the house dry and the hens healthy. Only healthy hens lay.

5 Never let a louse or a mite live overnight. Furnish a dust bath in a sunny place. Change the bedding and nest straw every month and spray nests and perches with lice paint every two weeks.

6 Don't doctor a hen that is really sick. Kill her.

7 Give the hens meat food and green food at least three times a week.

8 The chicken yard must be kept fresh and sweet. Spade it up at least twice a year turning under some slaked lime to correct the acidity of the soil. Sow rye in the fall for spring green feed and to sweeten the ground.

9 No hen is worth enough merely as a layer to be kept through her second molt. Kill her or sell her before she starts to molt.

10 Don't feed too much and don't feed too little. Grain morning and night is enough, particularly, if dry mash is kept before the birds and the grain should be fed in deep litter.

There is great satisfaction in a flock of chickens if they will do their duty when it will have the greatest effect. Winter is the time when eggs are highest and fresh ones scarcest, and the biggest factor in getting winter eggs is to hatch the pullets early. A combination of healthy early hatched pullets and lots of nourishing food always makes winter eggs, but few people seem to have recognized the factors of this simple equation.

CHAIN PRAYER FAKE

Blessing and Threat Appear in New and Silly Form

The endless chain prayers have taken a fresh impetus and the mails are being used for the dissemination of the following:

"An Ancient Prayer

O Lord, I implore You to help all mankind to bring victory to the Allies.

This is sent from Russia and is sent all over the world. Please copy and send it to someone each day for nine days and on the ninth day you will receive some great joy.

It was said in ancient times that all who passed it on would meet with misfortune; all that did it would be free from calamity.

The nine days begin on the receipt of this."

Just now [illegible] this prayer is would be interesting. The Allies have been at war less than three years, so the [illegible] four times mentioned must come within that period.

The prayer seems to be a poor imitation of an endless chain prayer which was in circulation several years ago and then turned to have been fathered by a Bishop of the Episcopal Church who denounced it and any connection with it as a fake. The time spent in copying the prayer and sending it to friends might better be occupied with more practical duties and the money spent for postage donated to some practical cause. The Freeman's advice to anyone who receives the so-called prayer is to break the chain at once by destroying the notice. Both the Allies and the United States can be aided in more practical ways.

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil he says is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

RED CROSS PLANS STATE CONFERENCE

Ulster County Chapter Asked to Send Delegates to Syracuse on Thursday—Judge Hasbrouck Presides as Chairman—New Committee Named.

A special meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross was held last evening at the home of the secretary, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, on Washington avenue, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, the new chairman of the local Red Cross, presiding for the first time. It was the sense of the meeting that the organization, both in its local aspect and its national affiliation is to be heartily congratulated upon having Judge Hasbrouck as its head. This meeting was made necessary by the telegram recently received, and in part from President Wilson, himself, and by a letter from Atlantic division headquarters, and these two matters occupied practically the entire period of the meeting.

The letter stated that a conference on Red Cross work for the state of New York has been called for Thursday, May 17, at Syracuse. The meetings will be held in the ball room of the Onondaga Hotel. The purpose of the conference is to co-ordinate the work of the one hundred and four chapters within the state. It is desirable to have present the chairman of each chapter, the chairman of the committee on finance, the chairman of the committee on extension, the chairman of the committee on civilian relief, and the person in charge of the workroom. Other delegates will also be welcome.

Organization of branches and auxiliaries.
Civilian relief.
Red Cross workrooms.
Chapter administration.
Red Cross supply service.
Membership.
Finance.

It is hoped by Albert W. Staub, director Atlantic Division, that all of the chapters will be adequately represented.

May Send Four Delegates.

Realizing the great importance of the meeting at Syracuse, and the necessity of having first hand information regarding all of the work to be prosecuted by the Ulster County Chapter, it was voted that the expenses of such necessary delegates as should go, should be paid by the chapter. It was further voted that where chairmen of committees could not go, they would be empowered to send a representative from their committee, should they think it advisable. Doubtless the four representatives especially asked for will go.

One exceedingly important transaction of the meeting was the empowering of the chair to appoint an administrative committee to supervise the entire work of the chapter.

After a lengthy and careful consideration of the long telegram, with especial consideration of the question of the fund for the war council, it was voted that J. E. Mahar, chairman of the finance committee, should at once telegraph the names of his committee to Seward Prosser, head of the financial department of the war council, and also ask him for further instructions and information. It was further moved that on receipt of such answer, the full finance commitee should be called to consider the instructions.

Containers Are Coming.

William C. Shafer, of the containers committee, stated that he and Mr. Service would at once begin work on their respective task. He was authorized to spend such sums as were necessary for the purchasing of the linings of the containers, etc. Mr. Shafer would appreciate it if the merchants and manufacturers of this city having empty boxes or suitable lumber for the containers, which they would be willing to contribute, would at once notify him of the same. A ready response is emphatically hoped for, as undoubtedly a requisition for finished garments and surgical supplies may be expected at any time, and it is of the utmost importance that the containers be ready in which to ship these suppiles.

The meeting then adjourned. A regular meeting of the executive committee of the chapter will be held on Friday evening of this week in the supreme court chambers.

Contributions and memberships to date are as follows: Contributions—Ladies'' Aid Society, Temple Emanuel, $5; E. N. Palen, $25. Membership—Central post office, in charge of Mrs. T. J. Hickey, and daily cared for by patriotic and interested women of the city—Mrs. Benjamin Delanoy, James F. Dwyer, Mrs. James F. Dwyer, John J. Goldrick, Mrs. John J. Goldrick, Miss Margery Dwyer, Mrs. Tillie Meeker, William O'Reilly, Mrs. Myron Teller, Miss Elizabeth Cockburn, S. D. Scudder, Jr., William C. Shafer, Mrs. Wright J. Smith, Mrs. Jacob Marks, E. E. Ougheltree, Mrs. E. E. Ougheltree, Mrs. Leon Blankfield.

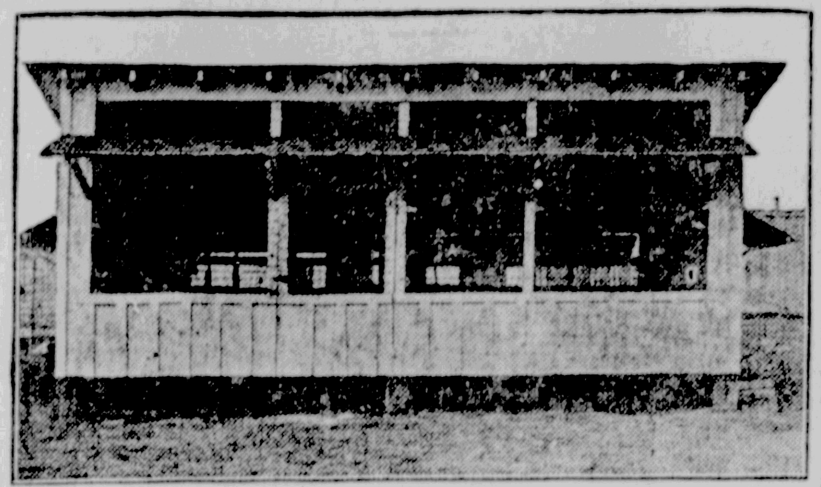
Patience.

Every man, worthy of the name, should know how to possess his soul—bearing with patience those things which energy cannot change, and the evil of which impatience only increases. This patient possession of one's soul stretches far and wide; it covers all the domain of social life—all the tract of inter-relation with others. It means patience with every kind of outside annoyance that cannot be removed by vigorous exertion.—Mrs. Lynn Linton.

CHICKS THRIVE BEST IN EARLY SPRING

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Contrary to general belief and practice, chicks do not grow or thrive as well during the warm months or hot summer days as they do earlier in the spring. Experienced poultrymen realize this fact. The average farmer, however, does not make an effort to hatch early so that the chicks will have the advantage of a longer and more favorable growing season. Early hatching not only insures more rapid gains in the growth of chicks but has a favorable influence on the size of the individuals of the flock. Late-hatched chicks rarely, if ever, attain the size of those hatched early. Early hatching likewise influences early maturity and consequently early egg production.



OPEN-FRONT HOUSE FOR POULTRY.

Given the same food, care and attention, chicks hatched the first of March will weigh more when they are four months old than those hatched a month later, say the poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture. This likewise holds true with chicks hatched the first of April as compared with those hatched May 1. This is due to the fact that the rate of growth of a chick is greater during the first four weeks of its life than at any other time. Consequently, the early hatched chick, having the advantage of a more favorable growing season, makes greater gains during the first four weeks of its life than the late-hatched chick. During the early spring months when the temperature is not so varied the growth of chicks is more uniform and constant than it is during the summer.

Millions of chicks die every year as a result of being infested with lice which, under average farm conditions, are ofttimes difficult to control. Hen-hatched chicks are not as subject to lice in the early spring as they are during the warmer months when lice are more prevalent. If for no other reason chicks should be hatched early so their growth will not be interrupted by the presence of lice.

Many farmers realize considerable money each spring from the sale of broilers, the price of which is usually governed by their size when sold and the time marketed. Thus it would seem that in order to increase the amount of money from the sale of broilers and fryers early hatching would be employed so as to have a marketable-sized fowl early in the spring when prices are highest.

CRATE FOR FATTENING

Larger Gains and Better Conditions of Flesh Produced.

Droppings Fall Through Slat Bottom, Insuring Clean Feed—Description of Device Given by Pennsylvania Expert.

Crate fattening of fowls produces larger gains and slightly better condition of fleshing than pen fattening. It is also cleaner, since the droppings fall through the slat, or wire bottom, preventing soiling of the feet and feathers of the fowls and insuring clean feed.

Crate fattening involves the restriction of exercise and forced feeding of the fowls. L. S. Kleinschmidt of the poultry husbandry division at the Pennsylvania State college, gives the following description of a desirable fattening crate:

Birds are placed in small crates or cages allowing approximately one square foot of space for each bird. The most desirable crate is six feet long, 16 inches wide and 20 inches high, divided into three two-foot compartments. The entire coop may be made of wooden slats one-half by one-inch in size, and running lengthwise over all parts except in front, where they should be nailed vertically. All except the bottom slats may be spaced about one inch apart. The bottom may be made of number 16 galvanized iron wire, having a two-inch mesh. The top, ends and back may be covered with a two-inch poultry netting in place of the slats. A sliding door should be on the front of the crate to permit the removal of the bird to arrange the crates in tiers one above the other. If they are so arranged galvanized iron trays should be placed beneath each crate to collect droppings. A feed trough should be arranged along the front of the crate.

A crate of this kind will accommodate from three to five birds in each compartment.

COMFORT FOR EARLY CHICKS

Warm Place Should Be Provided to Prevent Chilling When Mother Hen Fails to Brood Them.

Early chicks with hens should be kept in a warm place, otherwise they are likely to be chilled when the hens fail to brood them at the right time, and as each chick may require brooding at different times, a cold day would find it necessary for the old hen to hover her brood practically all the time, something that she is not likely to do. If the room is warm, there is less chance for trouble of this kind.

FLOOR FOR POULTRY HOUSES

Nothing Better Than Earth Where It Is Practicable to Keep It Dry—Sandy Loam Is Best.

There is no better floor for poultry than an earth one, providing it is practicable to keep it dry. It is also the most economical.

A light, sandy loam is the best soil for this purpose, where the climate is particularly dry.

DEVELOP NEW TOWN MARKET

Farmers who have a number of roasting-size chickens ready to sell to commission men might get a better price for them by selling to town or city dwellers. Such prospective buyers can be found readily by using a little advertising space in the hometown newspaper, and a good business be developed.

Many city dwellers have a small yard and house for poultry where they keep a few birds to fatten on table and kitchen scraps. Such people prefer birds of the roasting size, keeping a small flock of them so they may pick out a bird when needed. They usually buy a half-dozen or more at one time and will pay more for them than the farmer can get from the commission man ordinarily. This is a good way to dispose of surplus cockerels at a time when the open market might be oversupplied.

PROPER CARE OF INCUBATOR

Practice of Pennsylvania School to Regulate Temperature Before Putting Eggs in Machine.

A constant temperature is essential in the incubator. The practice at the Pennsylvania School of Agriculture and experiment station is to regulate the temperature carefully before the eggs are placed in the machine. The regulator should not be disturbed after that time. Any further adjustment of the temperature should be made by lowering the flame of the lamp.

For the first week the temperature should be 102 to 103 degrees, for the second week about 103 degrees, and beginning with the third week and continuing to the end of the batch, 103 to 104 degrees. These temperatures hold good when the center of the bulb of the thermometer is about 1¾ inches above the bottom of the egg tray.

DISPOSITION OF DEAD BIRDS

Practice of Allowing Carcasses to Lie About Premises Is Responsible for Much Trouble.

The practice of allowing dead chickens to lie about the premises or in the brooders and of throwing them over the fence for the hogs to eat, is decidedly bad, and directly responsible for large losses each year by causing and distributing disease. Burning is the safest and easiest method for disposing of dead fowls. The coal-burning brooder stoves will take care of any losses among small flocks and where considerable numbers of fowls are kept a small laundry stove or air-tight heater set up in the feedhouse or toolroom will prove very satisfactory.

DRINKING WATER FOR FOWLS

Do Not Allow It to Freeze and Do Not Compel Birds to Eat Snow During Cold Weather.

Do not allow the drinking water for the fowls to freeze, and do not compel them to eat snow, but give them frequently, during the coldest days, a drink of fresh water from which the chill has been removed by adding a little warm water.

COUPLE IN AUTO HAD A BAD FALL

Miss Helen Brice and Syracuse Man Had Narrow Escape When Machine Went Over Steep Embankment on Saugerties Road.

Miss Helen Brice of Cedar street, and a man said to reside in Syracuse narrowly escaped death Sunday evening when a Buick runabout in which they were riding ran into a guard rail near the Glenerie hill on the Saugerties road while traveling at a high rate of speed and dashed down a steep embankment along the road. After leaving the road the car continued for a considerable distance and ran over the bank, turning over several times before it came to a stop. Only the fact that the top of the car was up prevented the two occupants from being crushed.

Miss Brice with her companion left Kingston, going out the Saugerties road. When near the Glenerie hill they overtook another car and engaged in a race. Not being familiar with the turn at the hill the driver of the Buick car sped on, swung around the turn and crashed into the fence, carrying away some twenty-five feet of the guard rail and then running down the steep embankment and turning over. Neither of the occupants were seriously injured when the car left the road and except for a shaking up and a wrecked car no damage was done.

It is claimed that the Buick was traveling at a high rate of speed and a car coming from the direction of Saugerties blinded the driver and prevented him from seeing the sharp turn in the road.

What We Live For.

There is always something which we are living for, some prospect which sings and flutters in the cage of our spirit. The secret thing for which we are living might seem to others, if they knew of it, to be a trifling and ridiculous thing, like the joys of the poor. But the heart which knoweth its own sorrows, knows also its own happiness, and, in this life of ours that is a light, which enables us to see our way.—Rev. J. A. Hutton, M. A., D. D.

HENRY P. DAVISON.

DAVISON NOW CHAIRMAN OF RED CROSS WAR COUNCIL.

Henry P. Davison, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company, who has been named by President Wilson as chairman of the American Red Cross War Council.

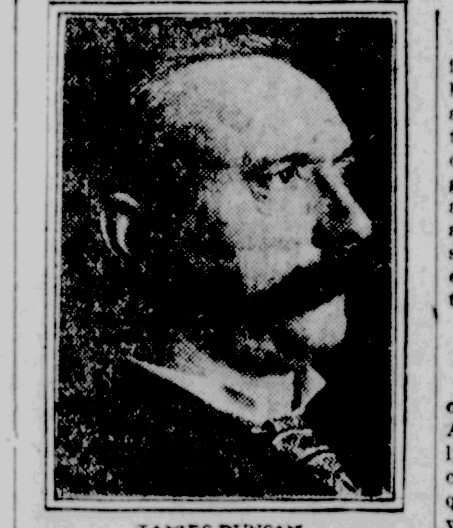
The council soon will make an appeal for many millions of dollars to be used for relief work for the American army and to aid the destitute civilian populations in the European war zone. Mr. Davison announced that the vast resources of J. P. Morgan & Company will be used to facilitate the work of the council.

No Reward for Laziness.

The only kind of people who are complete failures in life are the ones who never try to accomplish anything. For those who endeavor to achieve something worth while there is always a reward, even though they seem to fail, but for downright laziness there is no reward—and there shouldn't be.

Didn't Know St. Louis.

Jack, four, was taught to call his parent "father." One evening father was away from home and Jack started his evening prayer in this fashion: "Our father, who art in St. Louis."



JAMES DUNCAN.

AMERICA'S DELEGATE TO RUSSIAN REPUBLIC.

James Duncan, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who will be the representative of American labor on the commission which will go to Russia, headed by Elihu Root. It is expected that the mission will sail within a few days.

Softening Influence of Years.

There is something very beautiful in the softening influence of years on human character. While it is true that age is sometimes peevish, it is oftener true that men who have started on the down-hill stretch of life present their golden-ripe side to view, like a rich apple that has mellowed on the tree and taken its complexion from the sunshine that matures and beautifies everything in this lovely world.—Detroit Free Press.

Valuable Assistance.

A little girl was watching a surveyor at work near by with great interest. After a time she joined him and timidly asked to help. "Well, now, what could you help me do?" he jocularly inquired. "I could help you walk," she ventured.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

UNWISE advertising economy is an acquired habit with many merchants, like olives and moving pictures, but when the habit is continued—curtain! They seem to believe that each time they blackjack a dollar and lay it away on ice, withdrawing it from their advertising expenditures, they have done wisely. Really, such business men are short-changing themselves. Well written advertisements are business getters. The other kind won't do at all. Let me write you advs. with "pep and punch." George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E Doyle of Van Deusen street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith May, to James M. Deitz, of New York, formerly of this city. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Saturday evening, a social party was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Mooney at Eddyville and a most enjoyable time was held. During the evening Pardee's orchestra furnished music for dancing. All of the old-fashioned square and round dances were danced by the older folks and the modern dances were tripped by the younger folks.

Major and Mrs. John Bigelow of New York city have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jane Poultney Bigelow, to Thomas Harlan Elliott of New York city. Miss Bigelow is a granddaughter of the late John Bigelow and a niece of Poultney Bigelow of Malden-on-Hudson. During President Lincoln's administration John Bigelow, who was a native of Malden, was United States Minister to France during the reign of Napoleon III. Mr. Elliott is an architect and is now in training at the Officers' Reserve Training Camp at Plattsburg. Braxton Bigelow, a brother of Miss Bigelow, is a captain in the Royal Engineers of the British Army, now serving at the front.

CAMP ON LAKE GEORGE.

Kingston Boys Decide to Make a "Gypsy" Hike This Summer.

The Camp Council of the Y. M. C. A., which includes all of the boys who attended last year's camp, have decided that instead of a permanent camp this year they will make a two weeks' "gypsy hike" to Lake George. The dates fixed are July 14 to 28 and the boys expect to spend about four days on the way and nearly a week at Lake George, where they will camp with the Glens Falls organization, whose members have a large tract on the lake together with camp buildings and equipment.

The expense to each boy will probably not exceed $10. A horse and wagon may be taken to carry the two tents which will be used for camping along the road and the dunnage. If the boys find they like Lake George so well they may stay more than a week and return by train if finances permit.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 14.—A violent contest was in progress all during the first hour, with bear plungers making vigorous efforts to force declines of the railroad stocks. St. Paul, after selling at 72⅛, dropped to 69⅞ and then rallied to 71¾. Erie was down to 22½, and the first preferred fell ¾ to 34½. New York Central fell ⅞ to 86⅝. Steel Common, which opened ⅛ lower to 115⅞, was steadily bought while it moved up to 116⅝, then reacted to 116⅛ and came back to 116⅝. Crucible Steel moved up 1¾ to 67. Marine Pfd., after yielding to 78¼, advanced to 79¾. The copper shares were generally neglected and showed fractional losses.

The market tone in the afternoon reflected the almost sold out condition of the speculator's line. Steel Common advanced to 117 and St. Paul rose from 69⅞ to 72.

The market closed strong. Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies was prominent in the late dealings and rose to 102, a gain of over three points in all for the day. Steel Common rose to 117⅜ and Industrial Alcohol to 123½. The railway issues were in better demand, most of them closing with some amount of gain. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds weak.

Rain After Thunder.

Why does a heavy downpour of rain often follow a clap of thunder? asks the Popular Science Monthly, and gives this answer: Not, as is popularly believed, because the thunder jostles the cloud particles together into raindrops. In the violent turmoil between the positive and negative electricity in a thundercloud there will be places where the production of drops by condensation and their subsequent breaking up proceeds more rapidly than elsewhere. Hence in these places there will be more drops to fall as rain and also more electrification, the rainfall occurring about the same time as the flash.

We have, then, starting toward the earth at the same time, light, sound and raindrops. The light, traveling at a speed of about 186,000 miles per second, reaches us almost instantly. The sound travels far more slowly—about 1,090 feet per second—but the rain falls much more slowly still. Thus we observe, first, the lightning, then the thunder and then the rain.

Desert of Sahara.

At one time, some twoscore years ago, some Englishmen proposed to dig a canal on the northwest coast of Africa, south of Morocco, to admit the waters of the Atlantic into the Sahara desert. It was argued that a great inland sea would thus be created and that ocean vessels might steam into Africa and pick up cargoes along the western Sudan. This fine idea was based upon the prevalent notion that most of the desert surface was much below sea level. It was discovered later that most of the desert stands high above the sea. The French, who have been the greatest explorers of the desert, have corrected other false ideas about the desert. The most conspicuous and persistent of these errors has been the notion that the desert is a vast area of sand. The French have proved that this is not so. In fact, only about one-fifth of the Sahara is covered with sand.

Engine Taking a Bath.

A little fellow who saw a steamboat for the first time exclaimed: "Look, mamma! There is a railway engine taking a bath."

Steel in the Bible.

In all cases where the word "steel" occurs in the authorized version of the Bible the true rendering of the Hebrew should be "copper." Whether the ancient Hebrews were acquainted with steel is not certain. Steel appears to have been known to the Egyptians.

Beer and Grain Consumption

All of the malt and much of the barley that America is now exporting is used by our allies for beer

None of the European countries even after two and one-half years of war has stopped the brewing of beer

The British Liquor Control Commission has not attempted to deprive the people of their beer

Aside from its use for brewing, barley is seldom used for human food—but principally for feeding cattle

Sorensen the Great Danish Authority on Pure Food States That There is No Waste of Cereals in Brewing Beer

He has recently demonstrated that when barley is fed to cattle for producing beef only 51 per cent of the food value is retained—on the other hand, when converted into beer 61 per cent of the food value of barley is retained in the most easily digested form

The ignorant or wilful statement as to the amount of grain used for alcoholic beverages is enormously exaggerated The facts regarding the quantity consumed for that purpose are so readily obtainable from the United States Internal Revenue Department that the failure to produce them points to a deliberate suppression of the truth

	Bushels
Wheat	None
Oats	None
Rye	None
Barley	52 439,973
Corn Products	15,711,515
Rice	2,354,000
Total	70,505,488
35% of the material is returned to the farmer as a better milk-producing food than in its original state	24,676,920
This leaves	45,828,568

bushels actually consumed in beer—BEING LESS than 3/4 of ONE PER CENT of the grain production of our country.

BEER contains about
92 per cent water and about
5 per cent of extract derived from hops and cereals, principally barley malt and only about
3 to 4 per cent alcohol.

HIGH SCHOOL WON FROM PO'KEEPSIE

Stormy Session at Bridge City Had Gloomy Outlook Up to Sixth, When Colonial Lads Brought in Four Runs

The high school baseball gridadiers had rather a stormy session when they opened fire on those of the Poughkeepsie High School at Eastman's Park Saturday but by an effective pocket movement in the sixth inning cornered four runs and the decision by a score of 9 7 their fourth successive victory of the campaign The official communique has Pratt Joyce heading the roll of honor his batting proficiency being responsible for four runs scoring two personally and batting in the remaining duo For general carelessness in fielding nine would be eligible for medals

Kingston opened fire first and succeeded in shaving two across the platter Cordts got in the way of another pitched ball and he worked the rule successfully Robinson's bad throw in an attempt to catch him dozing advanced him to second Joyce then drew forth his battle stick and cracked out a scorcher scoring Cordts Another bad peg this time by Kinnane promoted Joyce to second After Wilson and Johnson had been felled by strike outs Kiernan came across with a hot liner at Hewlett the latter not connecting with same correctly Kiernan was secure on first and Joyce [illegible] home Relyea however was given the three swing execution

On Poughkeepsie's half Monas grounded out to Joyce W Delahoyd singled and Hewlett walked Cook planted one towards McAuliffe who erred on the play and all three runners were safe Another Delahoyd J this time shot one at Relyea who also bungled W Delahoyd however was caught at the plate the other three being safe at their posts With hood [illegible] McAuliffe [illegible] Kinnane [illegible] and he was given first a runner tallying Two singles by Wyant and Havens brought in the three on the bags Wilson ended the ordeal by [illegible] Wyant out a time when the runner tried to steal third station

Four to two is a very humiliating score against the Kingston kids and they started to work in the second Netter [illegible] by striking out Miles [illegible] safe when Monas muffed his grounder McAuliffe got hit [illegible] Cordts fanned With two down in [illegible] Joyce came up [illegible] and slammed out a timely single Miles scoring and McAuliffe coming [illegible] Joyce stole second Wilson [illegible] the ball to [illegible] and struck out

Poughkeepsie's performance was brief Robinson was fanned Monas popped a fly to Cordts and Delahoyd did the same to Joyce

In the third Kingston's three batters were retired on grounders Johnson Kiernan and Relyea Poughkeepsie added another to their lead After [illegible] Cook sacrificed Hewlett gaining second J Delahoyd got first on an error by Relyea and Hewlett third Delahoyd stole second Kinnane was fanned but Wyant poled out another timely single Hewlett tallying Havens was fanned

Kingston's offense was weakening Netter fanned Miles popped to Monas and McAuliffe's long fly went to Havens Another run this time without a single was Poughkeepsie's contribution McAuliffe hit both Robinson and Monas On an error by Cordts Robinson scored The next three batters flied out to Joyce Cordts and Wilson

In the fifth the Colonials made another rally and exploited one more run After Cordts had fanned Joyce shot across his third single stole second of course and scored on W Delahoyd's error of Johnson's grounder after Wilson had fanned Johnson was forced at second by Kiernan's grounder J Delahoyd fanned and Kinnane and Wyant were retired on flies to Relyea and Johnson

Six Four in Sixth

A 6 4 score at the beginning of the sixth when one's on the nether side of it isn't very promising and the Kingstonians launched a flank attack Relyea was safe on Robinson's error He got third on Netter's single The latter stole second Miles followed up with another hit Relyea and Netter crossing the rubber He stole second and scored on McAuliffe's hit Cordts and Joyce fanned but another error by Robinson put Wilson on first and McAuliffe home he having stolen third in the mean time Wilson pilfered second and third but was left there when Johnson fanned This sudden display of energy put Kingston in the lead Score 8 6

Another score in the seventh clinched victory for Kingston Kiernan planted a safe one stole second and got third on Relyea's single Relyea stole second After Netter had fanned Miles floated a long one to left which Wyant caught Kiernan however beat the throw home McAuliffe grounded to Hewlett Poughkeepsie also crawled out of her coma to get a parting run over Delahoyd got first on Johnson's error stole second and scored when Hewlett singled The latter and Cook were put out on a double McAuliffe to Relyea Monas caged a fly J Delahoyd grounded to Cordts

Kingston was retired in short order in the eighth Cordts singled but was nipped stealing second Joyce and Wilson went down on flies With two down and three men on base Poughkeepsie lacked the final punch in their half Havens was walked Robinson planed out a two bagger Havens reaching third Monas also [illegible] With two out Delahoyd could only roll a grounder to Joyce who took care of it duly

There was nothing doing at all in the last stanza both clans being laid low in quick succession though it may be said that Relyea, the last batter for Kingston was also the third man of his team to be hit by Robinson He however was caught pilfering second McAuliffe also beaned three hitsmiths

HIS VOCAL WORK WAS RATHER RANK

Everett Sampson, a young colored man, who said he works on the farm of John Oliver at Marbletown, came to Kingston on Saturday and that evening about 11 o'clock he started to serenade the residents of Hoffman street with sad results, for his vocal efforts were such they telephoned for aid and Officer Shader brought the concert to a sudden close by arresting the Marbletown nightingale and escorting him to the county jail, where he spent the balance of the night.

This morning Everett explained to Recorder Lang that he had a half a month's pay in his pockets when he came to Kingston, but after a drink or so he forgot everything else that had happened. He was greatly surprised this morning to wake up and find himself behind the bars and was puzzled to account for it until the jailer appeared with his breakfast, when explanations followed.

Recorder Lang, after hearing his story, fined him half a month's pay, amounting to $6, and unless it was paid Everett would be given a chance to entertain the jail inmates with songs for the next six days.

Poughkeepsie Man Pinched.

HIS BLACK EYE WAS EXHIBIT A

City Home Inmates in a Rumpus and Ira Cole Presented Mr. Henderson With the Eye—In Another Case Mr. Lowe Exhibits His Bumps.

Ira Cole, 54 years old, was sent to the county jail for twenty days this morning when he was arraigned before Recorder Lang on a charge of presenting James Henderson, who is in his seventies, with a black eye. Both men are inmates at the City Home. Saturday Mr. Cole who had been to town returned with a load of joy water aboard When he entered the City Home he found Mr. Henderson sitting quietly in a chair and sneaking up smashed him in the eye.

Mr. Henderson in telling his side of the story said, "I never had a mark on my face before your honor, and would not have one today if Ira had not taken me by surprise while I was sitting in a chair with my arms folded." Mr. Henderson also had some scratches on the side of his face where in trying to defend himself from Ira the later had dug him with his finger nails.

While the rumpus was at its heights Superintendent Thomas H. Edmonston appeared on the scene and promptly placed Ira under arrest.

Mr. Henderson exhibited his eye, which was highly decorated, to the court.

Lowe's Bumps.

William Rodell, Jr., a young man, was placed under arrest this morning by Officer Walker on a warrant sworn out by Abram Lowe, Jr., who informed Recorder Lang he had had an argument with young Rodell in the foundry on Prince street and that Rodell had assaulted him. Following the alleged assault Mr. Lowe visited the recorder, exhibited three lumps on his head, and asked for a warrant for Rodell's arrest. The warrant was issued this morning. Mr. Rodell's case was adjourned until Tuesday morning when he will have a chance to tell his side of the story.

WAGNER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN BASEBALL

BEST PLAYER GAME HAS EVER KNOWN.

A few years ago it was thought wonderful when Cy Young started on his twenty-fourth year in baseball, but old Cy didn't finish. It also was thought Matty was going to last forever, but his pitching years were limited to 16. Now Honus Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates steps out on completion of 25 years in the game.

To repeat Wagner's record would be like calling attention to the fact that Christmas comes on December 25. Everybody knows it. Instead of trying to fix these figures in your head, just remember that he is the best hitter and the best infielder that the game has ever known and that will be sufficient. He led the league in hitting so often that it became a habit.

DEFINITION OF "GINK"

Hub Perdue of Gallatin, Ky., a veteran of the majors, now pitching with the Louisville club of the American association, believes he has the regular definition of a "gink." "A gink," Hub said, in his Southern drawl, "is a fellah with mud on his boots the yeah 'round who lives so fah back in the woods that the owls sleep with his chickens, and he uses a 'possum for a watchdog."

YANKEES HAVE STRONG TEAM

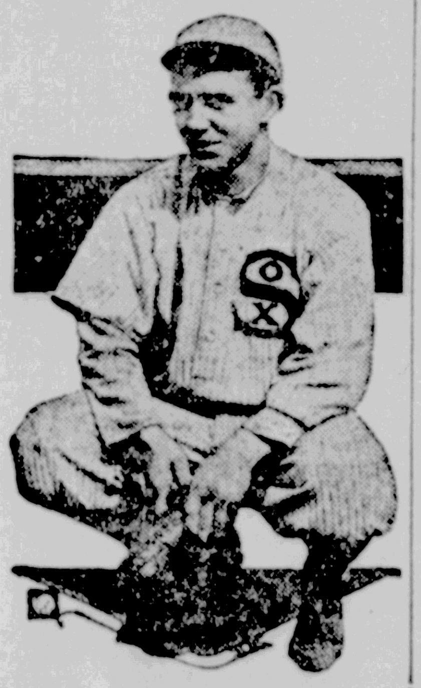
Ray Schalk, crack backstop of the White Sox and premier catcher of the American league, believes the Yankees are going to be the team that will have to be beaten for the rag in Mr. B. Johnson's circuit. Ray admits Boston is a tough proposition, but he is willing to do most of his worrying over Donovan's dynamiters.



Ray Schalk.

"But," said the White Sox star, "it's a long way to October tonight and you can't ever tell what will happen."

Naturally, Schalk figures the Sox are the real class of the league. He believes the team, through its good conditioning work this spring, is fit for a good start.

SENDING PLAYERS TO FARMS

Manager Fielder Jones is quoted as saying he does not entirely approve of the Rickey plan of optioning out players. "If I can't use a player I prefer to sell him outright," Jones is quoted as saying. Jones says his objection to sending players to "farms" is that often they might secure better berths if there are no strings attached, since there are many clubs that won't take a player under option.

Got First Choice.

Helen went to the hospital to see her new baby brother. There were nine other babies in the ward. After looking them all over carefully, she said: "Mamma, you got the best one of the ten. Did they let you have first pick?"

BASEBALL NOTES

Larry Doyle is bitting the ball regularly.

• • •

Joe Tinker is now a regular citizen of Columbus.

• • •

Bagby has cultivated a "fadeway" ball with which he does excellent execution.

• • •

Little Oscar Dugey may make Philly fans forget that Bert Niehoff was a hold-out.

• • •

• • •

Yerkes seems to be always in front of the ball regardless of which side of him it is hit.

• • •

Fielder Jones is negotiating with the veteran George Davis to aid in coaching the Browns.

• • •

The Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds are being picked for dark horses in their league.

• • •

Frank Chance has a good infield in spite of the fact that Harry Wolter was grabbed by the Cubs.

• • •

Promise that the Reds will soon be playing in midseason form doesn't cheer the Cincinnati fans any.

• • •

Cuban Cueto used to be an infielder with the St. Louis Feds. As an infielder he is a fine outfielder.

• • •

Sam Rice, the young outfielder Griffith has put in the regular team, is starting off like a real veteran.

• • •

Frank Gilhooley is fulfilling the promise he gave last year of developing into a really great outfielder.

• • •

A baseball magnate doesn't understand why he should number his players. They'll be around on pay day.

• • •

Outfielder Neale of the Reds has picked up a slippery nickname. He is known to his clubmates as "Greasy."

• • •

Hoblitzell and Larry Gardner have both got their batting eye. The rest of the Red Sox haven't been so lucky.

• • •

Those Teuton airplanes that are going to blow eastern cities won't hurt the Mackmen. They'll be in the cellar.

• • •

Understand now what Jawn McGraw meant when he talked of retiring. He's just going to re-tire his flock of limousines.

• • •

So far fans haven't heard of anybody starting an Atlantic league this year. Must be afraid of Bill Hohenzollern's U-boats.

• • •

Clyde Milan's ambition when his baseball days are ended is to settle down on a farm of about 150 or 200 acres in Tennessee.

• • •

Barry is one of the prettiest hitters the Milwaukee club has had in several seasons. He smacks the old apple on a line and there is a lot of power behind every punch he delivers.

Bob McAllister, holder of the middleweight championship of the Pacific coast, has scored another victory over Battling Levinsky in a ten-round bout at a New York sporting club. FINE OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

Plans Approved Call for Parade on Broadway and Exercise on Albany Avenue in Front of Kingston Academy Green

Plans for the patriotic celebration on Memorial Day were reported to general committee on Instruction by its sub committee consisting of Mayor Canfield, Superintendent of Schools Michael, Major James H. Everett and Captain B. J. Hornbeck Saturday night and were approved by the general committee.

The decoration of the graves of soldiers will be under the direction of the surviving veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and the pupils of the various schools as usual and will take place at the customary hour in the morning.

After the cemeteries have been visited and the graves decorated there will be a parade which will start from Pine Grove avenue and Broadway at 10.30 o'clock. The line of march will be down Broadway to West Chestnut street thence countermarching on Broadway to Albany avenue to the Kingston Academy green where appropriate exercises will take place. It is planned to have the exercises take place in the block of Albany avenue between Clinton avenue and Broadway which will be closed to traffic during the exercises.

The exercises will include the invocation by the Rev. [illegible] pastor of the [illegible] Church, [illegible] the reading of President Lincoln's Gettysburg address by the Rev. NEW YORK STATE CROP FORECAST

Winter wheat in New York promises a yield of 7,690,000 bushels this year, according to the May crop report of the federal department of agriculture. This is 600,000 bushels in excess of the 1910-14 average, but from over a million to four million bushels lower than the crops of 1916 and 1915 respectively. The forecast for rye in New York gives 2,540,000 bushels, slightly less than the yields of the last two years, but the United States as a whole shows an indicated increase in the rye yield.

The condition of New York meadows is reported at 90—two per cent better than the ten-year average; while pasture conditions are 84 compared to the ten-year average of 85.

Estimates on the amount of spring plowing and planting done to May 1 are greater not only in New York but in all the states taken together. New York shows 22 per cent more plowing done than at the same time last year, and 10 per cent more than the ten-year average. Twenty-seven per cent of the spring planting is said to be done in New York compared with only 10 per cent on May 1 last year, and 23 per cent the ten year agerage. Over twice as much old hay remains on New York farms than at the same time last year or the year before, the estimate being 1,405,000 tons. The old hay on farms in all the states is less than in 1916 but more than in 1915, the total being given as 12,500,000 tons on May 1.

SOLDIERS BEATEN BY PRIMROSE CLUB

What was said by many to be the most exciting game ever staged at McVey's field was played Sunday afternoon before the largest crowd of the season, when the Primrose Club of this city defeated the West Point artillery by the score of four to three. Dick Williams, who was on the mound for the locals, struck out fifteen of the visiting players while Bagley, the soldier's pitcher, struck out seven. The game was nip and tuck throughout, first one team would score and the other, not to be outdone, would come right back and tie it up in their half, and so it went until the locals half of the eight inning when Capt. Scherlck, first man up, was safe on an error, went to second on a pretty sacrifice and scored when Conners lined one over second for a pretty single, winning the game. Williams had the soldiers helpless in their half.

Too much credit cannot be given the artillery boys as they conducted themselves as gentlemen both on and off the field and they certainly do Uncle Sam credit.

It is the intention of the Primrose management to bring the artillery boys here for a double-header Decoration Day if such games can be arranged.

Next Sunday the Primrose Club meet the fast Catskill nine. Artie Rice and Cy Conners will be in the Catskill line-up.

Warning to Potato Growers.

Farmers in the northeastern states are warned not to plant newly harvested potatoes, especially the small, immature stock now coming from the south, in a statement issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Under the influence of the high price and unusual demand for seed potatoes these immature stocks, it is learned, are being offered for planting. Newly harvested potatoes, whether dug in the early spring summer, or autumn, the department's specialists state, do not germinate until after undergoing a certain rest period, and results are sure to be disappointing. Germination may be delayed six weeks or more, and in any case will be uneven and the stand imperfect. The grower, therefore, is warned not to purchase such seed, as more or less serious financial loss will be sure to result if he plants it.

RED CROSS PLANS STATE CONFERENCE

Ulster County Chapter Asked to Send Delegates to Syracuse on Thursday—Judge Hasbrouck Presides as Chairman—New Committee Named

A special meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross was held last evening at the home of the secretary Mrs W. N. Fessenden on Washington avenue. Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck the new chairman of the local Red Cross presiding for the first time. It was the sense of the meeting that the organization both in its local aspect and its national affiliation is to be heartily congratulated upon having Judge Hasbrouck as its head. This meeting was made necessary by the telegram recently received and in part from President Wilson himself and by a letter from Atlantic Division headquarters and these two matters occupied practically the entire period of the meeting.

The letter stated that a conference on Red Cross work for the state of New York has been called for Thursday May 17 at Syracuse. The meetings will be held in the ball room of the Onondaga Hotel. The purpose of the conference is to coordinate the work of the one hundred and four chapters within the state. It is desirable to have present the chairman of each chapter the chairman of the committee on finance the chairman of the committee on extension the chairman of the committee on civilian relief and the person in charge of the workroom. Other delegates will also be welcome.

Organization of branches and auxiliaries
Civilian relief
Red Cross workrooms
Chapter administration
Red Cross supply service
Membership
Finance

It is hoped by Albert W. Staub director Atlantic Division that all of the chapters will be adequately represented.

May Send Four Delegates

Realizing the great importance of the meeting at Syracuse and the necessity of having first hand information regarding all of the work to be performed by the Ulster County Chapter it was voted that the expense of such four delegates as should go should be paid by the chapter. It was further voted that where chairmen of committees could not go they would be empowered to send a representative from their committee should they think it advisable. Doubtless the four representatives especially asked for will go.

One exceedingly important transaction of the meeting was the empowering of the chairman to appoint an administrative committee to supervise the entire work of the chapter.

After a lengthy and careful consideration of the long telegram with [illegible] of the fund for the war council it was voted that J. J. Mahar chairman of the finance committee should at once telegraph the name of his committee to Seward Prosser head of the financial department of the war council and also ask him for further instructions and information. It was further moved that on receipt of such answer the full finance committee should be called to consider the instructions.

Containers Are Coming

William C. Shafer of the containers committee stated that he and Mr [illegible] would at once begin work on their respective lists. He was authorized to spend such sums as were necessary for the purchasing of the linings of the containers etc. Mr Shafer would appreciate it if the merchants and manufacturers of this city having empty boxes or suitable lumber for the containers which they would be willing to contribute would at once notify him of the same. [illegible] hospital garments and surgical supplies may be expected at any time and it is of the utmost importance that the containers be ready in which to ship these supplies.

The meeting then adjourned. A regular meeting of the executive committee of the chapter will be held on Friday evening of this week in the supreme court chambers.

Contributions and memberships to date are as follows: Contributions—Ladies Aid Society Temple Emanuel $[illegible]; E. N. Palen $25. Membership—Central post office in charge of Miss [illegible] J. Rieley and daily cared for by patriotic and interested women of the city—Mrs Benjamin Delanoy, [illegible] Dwyer, Mrs [illegible] Dwyer, John J. Goldrick, Mrs John J. Goldrick, Miss Margery Dwyer, Mrs Tillie Mecker, William O'Reilly, Mrs Myron Teller, Miss Elizabeth Cockburn, S. D. Scudder Jr., William C. Shafer, Mrs Wright J. Smith, Mrs Jacob Marks, F. E. Ougheltree, Mrs J. J. Ougheltree, Mrs Leon Blanknell.

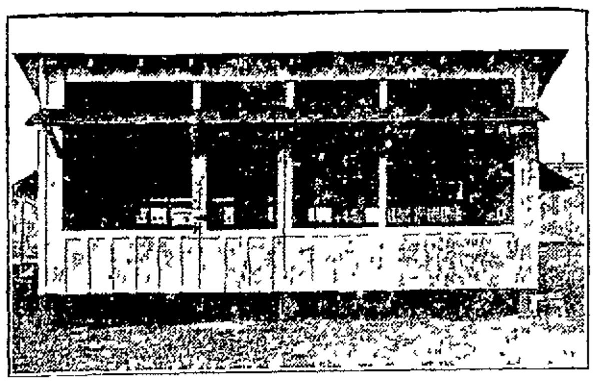
Patience

Every man worthy of the name should know how to possess his soul bearing with patience those things which energy cannot change and the ill of which impatience only increases. This patient possession of a soul stretches far and wide. It covers all the domain of social life—all the tract of interrelation with others. It means patience with every [illegible] cannot be removed by [illegible] exertion.—Mrs [illegible] Linton

CHICKS THRIVE BEST IN EARLY SPRING

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Contrary to general belief and practice, chicks do not grow or thrive as well during the warm months or hot summer days as they do earlier in the spring. Experienced poultrymen realize this fact. The average farmer, however, does not make an effort to hatch early so that the chicks will have the advantage of a longer and more favorable growing season. Early hatching not only insures more rapid gains in the growth of chicks but has a favorable influence on the size of the individuals of the flock. Late-hatched chicks rarely if ever attain the size of those hatched early. Early hatching likewise influences early maturity and consequently early egg production.



OPEN FRONT HOUSE FOR POULTRY.

Given the same food, care and attention, chicks hatched the first of March will weigh more when they are four months old than those hatched a month later, say the poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture. This likewise holds true with chicks hatched the first of April as compared with those hatched May 1. This is due to the fact that the rate of growth of a chick is greater during the first four weeks of its life than at any other time. Consequently, the early hatched chick having the advantage of a more favorable growing season, makes greater gains during the first four weeks of its life than the late-hatched chick. During the early spring months when the temperature is not so varied the growth of chicks is more uniform and constant than it is during the summer.

Millions of chicks die every year as a result of being infested with lice which under average farm conditions, are ofttimes difficult to control. Hen-hatched chicks are not as subject to lice in the early spring as they are during the warmer months when lice are more prevalent. If for no other reason chicks should be hatched early so their growth will not be interrupted by the presence of lice.

Many farmers realize considerable money each spring from the sale of broilers the price of which is usually governed by their size when sold and the time marketed. Thus it would seem that in order to increase the amount of money from the sale of broilers and fryers early hatching would be employed so as to have a marketable sized fowl early in the spring when prices are highest.

CRATE FOR FATTENING

Larger Gains and Better Conditions of Flesh Produced.

Droppings Fall Through Slat Bottom, Insuring Clean Feed—Description of Device Given by Pennsylvania Expert

Crate fattening of fowls produces larger gains and slightly better condition of fleshing than pen fattening. It is [illegible] since the droppings fall through the slat or wire bottom, preventing soiling of the feet and feathers of the fowls and insuring clean feed.

Crate fattening involves the restriction of exercise and forced feeding of the fowls. J. S. Kleinschmidt of the poultry husbandry division at the Pennsylvania State college gives the following description of a desirable fattening crate:

Birds are placed in small crates or cages allowing approximately one square foot of space for each bird. The most desirable crate is six feet long 16 inches wide and 20 inches high divided into three two-foot compartments. The entire coop may be made of wooden slats one-half by one inch in size and running lengthwise over all parts except in front where they should be nailed vertically. All except the bottom slats may be spaced about one inch apart. The bottom may be made of number 16 galvanized iron wire having a one-inch mesh. The top ends and back may be covered with a two-inch poultry netting in place of the slats. A sliding door should be on the front of the crate to [illegible] the removal of the birds [illegible]. If they are so arranged galvanized iron trays should be placed beneath each crate to collect droppings. A feed trough should be arranged along the front of the crate.

A crate of this kind will accommodate from three to five birds in each compartment.

COMFORT FOR EARLY CHICKS

Warm Place Should Be Provided to Prevent Chilling When Mother Hen Fails to Brood Them

Early chicks with hens should be kept in a warm place otherwise they are likely to be chilled when the hens fail to brood them at the right time and as each chick may require brooding at different times a cold day would find it necessary for the old hen to hover her brood practically all the time something that she is not likely to do. If the room is warm there is less chance for trouble of this kind.

FLOOR FOR POULTRY HOUSES

Nothing Better Than Earth Where It Is Practicable to Keep It Dry—Sandy Loam Is Best.

There is no better floor for poultry than an earth one providing it is practicable to keep it dry. It is also the most economical.

A light sandy loam is the best soil for this purpose where the climate is particularly dry

DEVELOP NEW TOWN MARKET

Farmers who have a number of roasting size chickens ready to sell to commission men might get a better price for them by selling to town or city dwellers. Such prospective buyers can be found readily by using a little advertising space in the home-town newspaper and a good business be developed.

Many city dwellers have a small yard and house for poultry where they keep a few birds to fatten on table and kitchen scraps. Such people prefer birds of the roasting size keeping a small flock of them so they may pick out a bird when needed. They usually buy a half dozen or more at one time and [illegible] more for them than the farmer can get from the commission man ordinarily. This is a good way to dispose of surplus cockerels at a time when the open market might be oversupplied.

PROPER CARE OF INCUBATOR

A constant temperature is essential in the incubator. The practice at the Pennsylvania School of Agriculture and experiment station is to regulate the temperature carefully before the eggs are placed in the machine. The regulator should not be disturbed after that time. Any further adjustment of the temperature should be made by lowering the flame of the lamp.

For the first week the temperature should be 102 to 103 degrees, for the second week about 103 degrees and beginning with the third week until the end of the hatch 103 to 104 degrees. These temperatures hold good when the center of the bulb of the thermometer is about 1¾ inches above the bottom of the egg tray.

DISPOSITION OF DEAD BIRDS

Practice of Allowing Carcasses to Lie About Premises Is Responsible for Much Trouble

The practice of allowing dead chickens to lie about the premises or in the brooders and of throwing them over the fence for the hogs to eat is [illegible] responsible for large losses each year by causing and distributing disease. Burning is the safest and easiest method for disposing of dead fowls. The coal-burning brooder stoves will take care of any losses among small flocks and where considerable numbers of fowls are kept a small laundry stove or air-tight heater set up in the feedhouse or toolroom will prove very satisfactory.

DRINKING WATER FOR FOWLS

Do not allow the drinking water for the fowls to freeze and do not compel them to eat snow but give them frequently during the coldest days a drink of fresh water from which the chill has been removed by adding a little warm water

COUPLE IN AUTO HAD A BAD FALL

Miss Helen Brice and Syracuse Man Had Narrow Escape When Machine Went Over Steep Embankment on Saugerties Road

Miss Helen Brice of Cedar street and a man said to reside in Syracuse narrowly escaped death Sunday evening when a Buick runabout in which they were riding ran into a guard rail near the Glenerie hill on the Saugerties road while traveling at a high rate of speed and dashed down a steep embankment along the road. After leaving the road the car continued for a considerable distance and ran over the bank turning over several times before it came to a stop. Only the fact that the top of the car was up prevented the two occupants from being crushed.

Miss Brice with her companion left Kingston going out the Saugerties road. When near the Glenerie hill they overtook another car and engaged in a race. Not being familiar with the turn at the hill the driver of the Buick car sped on, swung around the turn and crashed into the fence, carrying away some twenty five feet of the guard rail and then running down the steep embankment and turning over. Neither of the occupants were seriously injured when the car left the road and except for a shaking up and a wrecked car no damage was done.

It is claimed that the Buick was traveling at a high rate of speed and a car coming from the direction of Saugerties blinded the driver and prevented him from seeing the sharp turn in the road.

What We Live For

There is always something which we are living for some prospect which sings and flutters in the cage of our spirit. The secret thing for which we are living might seem to others if they knew of it to be a trifling and ridiculous thing like the joys of the poor. But the heart which knoweth its own sorrows knows also its own happiness, and in this life of ours that is a light which enables us to see our way.—Rev J. A. Hutton M. A., D. D.

The council soon will make an appeal for many millions of dollars to be used for relief work for the American army and to aid the destitute civilian populations in the European war zone. Mr Davison announced that the vast resources of J. P. Morgan & Company will be used to facilitate the work of the council.

No Reward for Laziness.

The only kind of people who are complete failures in life are the ones who never try to accomplish anything. For those who endeavor to achieve something worth while there is always a reward even though they seem to fail but for downright laziness there is no reward—and there shouldn't be.

Softening Influence of Years

There is something very beautiful in the softening influence of years on human character. While it is true that age is sometimes peevish it is oftener true that men who have started on the down hill stretch of life present their golden ripe side to view like a rich apple that has mellowed on the tree and taken its complexion from the sunshine that matures and beautifies everything in this lovely world.—Detroit Free Press.

Valuable Assistance.

A little girl was watching a surveyor at work near by with great interest. After a time she joined him and timidly asked to help. "Well, now what could you help me do?" he jocularly inquired. "I could help you walk," she ventured.

UNWISE advertising economy is an acquired habit with many merchants, like olives and moving pictures, but when the habit is continued—curtain! They seem to believe that each time they blackjack a dollar and lay it away on ice, withdrawing it from their advertising expenditures, they have done wisely. Really, such business men are short-changing themselves. Well written advertisements are business getters. The other kind won't do at all. Let me write you ads. with "pep and punch." George M. CAMP ON LAKE GEORGE.

Kingston Boys Decide to Make a "Gypsy" Hike This Summer.

The Camp Council of the Y. M. C. A., which includes all of the boys who attended last year's camp, have decided that instead of a permanent camp this year they will make a two weeks' "gypsy hike" to Lake George. The dates fixed are July 14 to 28 and the boys expect to spend about four days on the way and nearly a week at Lake George, where they will camp with the Glens Falls organization, whose members have a large tract on the lake together with camp buildings and equipment.

The expense to each boy will probably not exceed $10. A horse and wagon may be taken to carry the two tents which will be used for camping along the road and the dunnage. If the boys find they like Lake George so well they may stay more than a week and return by train if finances permit.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 14.—A violent contest was in progress all during the first hour, with bear plungers making vigorous efforts to force declines of the railroad stocks. St. Paul, after selling at 72¼, dropped to 69⅞ and then rallied to 71¾. Erie was down to 22¾, and the first preferred fell ¾ to 34½. New York Central fell ⅞ to 86⅝. Steel Common, which opened ⅛ lower to 115⅞, was steadily bought while it moved up to 116⅝, then reacted to 116⅛ and came back to 116⅜. Crucible Steel moved up 1⅜ to 67. Marine Pfd., after yielding to 78½, advanced to 79⅜. The copper shares were generally neglected and showed fractional losses.

The market tone in the afternoon reflected the almost sold out condition of the speculator's line. Steel Common advanced to 117 and St. Paul rose from 69⅞ to 72.

The market closed strong. Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies was prominent in the late dealings and rose to 102, a gain of over three points in all for the day. Steel Common rose to 117⅞ and Industrial Alcohol to 123½. The railway issues were in better demand, most of them closing with some amount of gain. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds weak.

Rain After Thunder.

Why does a heavy downpour of rain often follow a clap of thunder? asks the Popular Science Monthly, and gives this answer: Not, as is popularly believed, because the thunder jostles the cloud particles together into raindrops. In the violent turmoil between the positive and negative electricity in a thundercloud there will be places where the production of drops by condensation and their subsequent breaking up proceeds more rapidly than elsewhere. Hence in these places there will be more drops to fall as rain and also more electrification, the rainfall occurring about the same time as the flash.

We have, then, starting toward the earth at the same time, light, sound and raindrops. The light, traveling at a speed of about 186,000 miles per second, reaches us almost instantly. The sound travels far more slowly—about 1,090 feet per second—but the rain falls much more slowly still. Thus we observe, first, the lightning, then the thunder and then the rain.

Desert of Sahara.

At one time, some twoscore years ago, some Englishmen proposed to dig a canal on the northwest coast of Africa, south of Morocco, to admit the waters of the Atlantic into the Sahara desert. It was argued that a great inland sea would thus be created and that ocean vessels might steam into Africa and pick up cargoes along the western Sudan. This fine idea was based upon the prevalent notion that most of the desert surface was much below sea level. It was discovered later that most of the desert stands high above the sea. The French, who have been the greatest explorers of the desert, have corrected other false ideas about the desert. The most conspicuous and persistent of these errors has been the notion that the desert is a vast area of sand. The French have proved that this is not so. In fact, only about one-fifth of the Sahara is covered with sand.

HIS VOCAL WORK WAS RATHER RANK

Everett Sampson a young colored man who said he works on the farm of John Oliver at Marbletown came to Kingston on Saturday and that evening about 11 o'clock he started to serenade the residents of Hoffman street with sad results for his vocal efforts were such that the telephone ? for aid and Officer Snyder brought the concert to a sudden close by arresting the Marbletown nightingale and escorting him to the county jail where he spent the balance of the night

This morning Everett explained to Recorder Lang that he had a half a month's pay in his pocket when he came to Kingston but after a drink or so he forgot everything else that had happened. He was greatly surprised this morning to wake up and find himself in the county jail and was puzzled to account for it until the jailer appeared with his breakfast when explanations followed

Recorder Lang after hearing his story fined him half a month's pay amounting to $6 and unless it was paid Everett would be given a chance to entertain the jail inmates with ? for the next six days

WAGNER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN BASEBALL

BEST PLAYER GAME HAS EVER KNOWN

A few years ago it was thought wonderful when Cy Young started on his twenty fourth year in baseball but ? ? ? didn't finish. It also was thought Matty was going to last forever but his pitching years were limited to 16. Now Honus Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates steps out on completion of ? years in the game

To repeat Wagner's record would be like calling attention to the fact that Christmas comes on December 25. Everybody knows it. Instead of trying to fix these figures in your head just remember that he is the best hitter and the best infielder that the game has ever known and that will be sufficient. He led the league in batting so often that it became a habit

Hub Perdue of Gallatin Ky a veteran of the majors now pitching with the Louisville club of the American association believes he has the regular definition of a gink. "A gink," Hub said in his Southern drawl, "is a fellah with mud on his boots the year round who lives so fah back in the woods that the owls sleep with his chickens and he ? ? ? ?sum for a watchdog

YANKEES HAVE STRONG TEAM

Ray Schalk Crack Backstop of White Sox Is Doing Most of Worrying Over Donovanites

Ray Schalk crack backstop of the White Sox and premier catcher of the American league believes the Yankees ? ? ? ? the team that will have to be beaten for the flag in Mr B? John

Ray Schalk

? ? ? ? Ray admits Boston is a tough proposition but he is willing to do most of his worrying over Donovan's dynamiters

? said the White Sox star "It is a long way to October tonight and you can't ever tell what will happen

SENDING PLAYERS TO FARMS

Manager Fielder Jones is quoted as saying he does not entirely approve of the Rickey plan of optioning out players. "If I can't use a player I prefer to sell him outright." Jones is quoted as saying. Jones says his objection to sending players to "farms" is that often they might secure better berths if there are no strings attached, also there are many clubs that won't take a player under option.

BASEBALL NOTES

Larry Doyle is hitting the ball regularly

* * *

* * *

Bagby has cultivated a "fadeway" ball with which he does excellent execution

* * *

* * *

The Jenkins is ? ? right along ? ? ? himself a place with the White Sox

* * *

? ? seems to be always in front of the ball regardless of which side of him it is hit

* * *

* * *

* * *

Frank Chance has a good infield in spite of the fact that Harry Wolter was grabbed by the Cubs

* * *

Promise that the Reds will soon be playing in mid season form doesn't cheer the Cincinnati fans any

* * *

Cuban Cueto used to be an infielder with the St Louis Feds. As an infielder he is a fine outfielder

* * *

* * *

* * *

A baseball magnate doesn't understand why he should number his players. ? ? ? be around on pay day

* * *

Outfielder Neale of the Reds has picked up a slippery nickname. He is known to his clubmates as Greasy

* * *

Hoblitzell and Larry Gardner have both got their batting eye. The rest of the Red Sox haven't been so lucky

* * *

Those Teuton airplanes that are going to blow eastern cities won't hurt the Mackmen. They'll be in the cellar

* * *

Understand now what Jawn McGraw meant when he talked of "retiring." He's just going to retire his flock of ? ? since.

* * *

So far fans haven't heard of anybody starting an ? ? game this year. Must be afraid of ? Hohenzollern's U boats

* * *

Clyde Milan's ambition when his baseball days are ended is to settle down on a farm of about 1?0 or ?00 acres in Tennessee

* * *

Barry is one of the prettiest hitters the Milwaukee club has had in several seasons. He smacks the old apple on a line and there is a lot of power behind every punch he delivers.

Got First Choice

Helen went to the hospital to see her new baby brother. There were nine other babies in the ward. After looking them all over carefully she said "Mamma you got the best one of the ten. Did they let you have first pick?"
